Mrs. Weitzen's 71 Wins Star Cup

Mrs. William Weitzen of Indian Spring shot 79-8-71 and captured the Star Cup for Class A golfers of the Women's District Golf Association yesterday on her home course.

Low gross went to Kit Diggs of Manor with 77. Miss Diggs was one shot lower than the Maryland amateur champion Mrs. Frank Cush of Argyle.

Second net went to Mrs. Ben Frauwrith of Indian Spring with an 84-12-72.

Mrs. Weitzen Wins Star Cup With Net 71

Mrs. William Weitzen of Indian Spring moved in fast company when she won the Women's District Golf Association's Evening Star Cup tournament yesterday at Indian Spring. The three-time Indian Spring champion shot a 79 over her home course, and deducted eight handicap for a winning net 71.

The field included Georgia Mae McKeever and Mrs. Charles Egenroad, the District champion and medalist, Mrs. Frank Cush, the Maryland State champion, and a State semi-finalist, Barbara Diggs.

But only three of the 57 Class A players broke 80. Mrs. Weitzen was one of them with a 40-39. Low gross went to Kathryn Diggs, who lost an extra hole match to her sister, Barbara, in the State championship last week. Kathryn had a 77. Second gross went to Mrs. Cush with a 78.

Hard-Working Golfer

Mrs. Weitzen, mother of two junior golfers, 11 and 14, is a sincere and hard-working golfer. She goes to Bobby Bowers of the Indian Spring pro staff for lessons when something goes wrong. She won her last WDGA cup tournament in 1953 when she captured the Corby Cup. Mrs. Weitzen was Indian Spring club champion in 1954, 1956 and 1958. Yesterday she played a good tee-to-green round and had 30 putts.

Kathryn Diggs' 77 was a 37-40 production from the front of the men's tees, a good round over the big chief course. Mrs. Cush played the back nine first and had a 36. On the front nine she fell behind a slow threesome that started late. She was held up so much that she lost interest and she was back in 42 for 78.

The Women's District Golf Association's tournament committee warned the slow group. They had 4½ holes to play when everybody else had finished. The next time there will be a penalty for the player at fault, the committee ruled.

Mrs. Ben Frauwrith of Indian Spring missed a tie or a possible cup victory by taking fives on two par three holes. Mrs. Frauwrith had a 44-40-84 and deducted 12 handicap for a 72 to tie for second. However, she won runnerup honors by matching cards.

Mrs. Calvert Third

Mrs. G. W. Calvert of Washington Golf and Country Club was third with 41-44-85 minus 13 for 72. Mrs. Richard Kreuzburg of Columbia, a former Star Cup winner, was next with 40-42-82 minus 10 for 72.

Mrs. John Corson of Washington had 85-12-73 and Mrs. C. P. Phoebus of Army Navy, another former Star Cup winner, was next with 81-8-73. Mrs. Wilson Howard of Argyle, winner of the Star's Class B Cup last year, won seventh net with 85-11-74. Mrs. J. T. Kaigler of Army Navy had 86-11-75 for eighth net.

Mrs. Paul H. Streit of Chevy Chase, president of the WDGA, put in a full day of executive work, including some new tournament proposals and presenting the prizes. But she was matched out of the prize list with 82-7-75. Mrs. Clarence Doser, wife of the Woodmont pro, had the same fate with 87-12-75.

Barbara Diggs missed the prize list with an 80, as did Mrs. Egenroad with an 81. Both gross scores.

TEE TO GREEN

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

After Mrs. Joseph Singhass, the former Mary Ann Musser, won the Baltimore City Women's golf championship the other day, Jim Wild of the Baltimore Sun mentioned that the victory could point the way to a new era in Maryland women's golf.

That era could gain a firmer footing this week, when the 20-year-old Mrs. Singhass and Jane Schiller, the University of Maryland coed from Salisbury, will be co-favorites in the State women's championship starting tomorrow at Norbeck Country Club.

With the domination of Mrs. Maurice Glick and Mary Ann Downey having reduced the entry list in State tournaments to new lows, the presence of new, young faces could renew interest.

Mary Ann Musser had tremendous potential at the age of 15. She lived on the All View golf course, where her father is pro, and had every opportunity. But her father will tell you her temperament was not in her favor. She won the Baltimore public links championship a couple of times, but nothing else of note.

Mrs. Singhass was out of golf for a year with the birth of a son, but now in her comeback year is a much better player and thinker than in her teen days, everybody is saying. Her dad says she has matured. She beat Mrs. Glick en route to the Baltimore city title, and two days ago won a ladies' day event at Forest Park with a 75.

Miss Schiller won the Payne Cup, major medal play event of the Maryland State women, last year, and the District has a bright junior prospect in 18-year-old Lillian Lea, the Court House champion. Baltimoreans also are talking about Mary Alice Sawyer, 14-year-old, 5-foot-8 youngster from Clifton Park, who hits the ball for tremendous distances, and has some other shots.

This could be the most interesting State Women's championship in years, and far more exciting than the recent District Women's championship which was marked by considerable apathy.

Cumberland, Md., never has made a practice of suppressing news, but somehow word never leaked from there that Barbara Diggs of Manor won the recent Cumberland Women's Invitation with 81-78-159. Mrs. Frank Cush, last year's District champion from Argyle, was next with 81-82-163. . . . The former presidents of the District Golf Association received their new green coats just in time for the Deane Beman luncheon the other day.

The Virginia Amateur championship is getting so big that the field may be limited by handicap, or sectional qualifying rounds may be necessary in the future. The starting field of 223 in the State Amateur and 71 in the Senior championship at Hot Springs was a record. The combination of a resort course and holiday week end dates long has made the Virginia Amateur one of the most popular events in the Middle Atlantic area. It could be copied.

Ray Lawrenson calls attention to the District Golf Association's two-man handicap tournament Friday at Woodmont. This is an 18-hole handicap event with net and gross prizes. . . . the Mid-Atlantic Golf Superintendents will appraise the new nine holes at Winchester Country Club at Tuesday's meeting at the Virginia course.

Tuesday is the entry deadline for the Maryland Open championship that will be played Tuesday, July 14, at Woodholme in Baltimore. Entries for the State pro-am tournament July 13 at Woodholme close the same day. . . . Incidentally, the Maryland State GA should be congratulated for its excellent prizes for the State Amateur, including attractive trophies for semifinalists, and a stunning watch for the new champion.

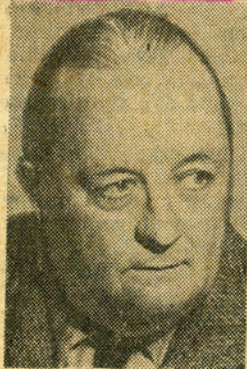

The deadline is approaching for entries to the Women's National Amateur. The USGA must have the entries August 6 in New York for the championship beginning August 24 at Congressional Country Club.

Deane Beman and Billy Buppert are automatic qualifiers for the John G. Anderson Memorial starting Thursday at Winged Foot, site of the U. S. Open championship. Bobby Brownell and Ralph Bogart, twice winners, will battle for one of the 32 match play berths with 90-odd other teams in the East's outstanding four-ball tournament.

TEE TO GREEN

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

The handicap systems at several of the District area clubs obviously are out of order—the net scores show it—and either the District or Maryland State Golf Associations or the Middle Atlantic PGA should be asked to step in and lend a hand.

A couple of the clubs seem to be lax in bringing handicaps up-to-date, and are advising members to check their handicaps before playing in an outside tournament.

Westbriar Country Club is making the first hole the 10th and the 10th the first to relieve congestion around the starting tees. They're parallel par 4s of about the same length. . . . The steel is in place in the new clubhouse at Westbriar and wagers now are being taken on opening of the downstairs by August 20 and the upstairs by October 15.

The Maryland State Golf Association's two-man team handicap tournament August 4 at Chevy Chase Club will be limited to 120 players. The first 60 teams to mail entries will be accepted.

Now that the PGA championship will have 17 invited players who are not PGA members playing for the title next week, why not open up the tournament to amateurs? That would be a great distinction for one of the simon-pures, to be low amateur in the PGA.

The practice day date for the District Amateur championship at Columbia this week will be Tuesday instead of Wednesday. The championship starts with an 18-hole qualifying round Thursday and concludes with a 36-hole final next Sunday. Entries still are open.

The major medal play tournament of the metropolitan New York area, the Ike championship, was won last week by Paul Kelly of Sleepy Hollow, who the New York golf writers calm claim will be a strong contender for the National Amateur title. Kelly was in the finals of the Anderson 4-Ball against Deane Beman and Billy Buppert.

The tournament players of the Women's District Golf Association have been asked to consider late September dates for the District championship next year. Not only do the usual June dates conflict with the Middle Atlantic, the Eastern and the Cumberland Invitational, but it has been pointed out that weddings and graduations are other June items that conflict with week-long golf tournaments.

Most of the original 113 entries will return to Woodholme tomorrow for the Maryland Open championship, which was rained out last Tuesday. The most prominent scratch from the 36-hole tournament at the Pikesville club will be Ralph Bogart, who recently won his seventh State Amateur. Bogart left this week end on vacation.

One of the young pros who complained about the postponement of the State Open last week said, "Charley Bassler had the shanks, Jack Isaacs had a bad back and the course was wet and too long for Clarence Doser. That took care of the favorites. They'll probably be fit next week and finish 1-2-3"

The wife and children of Belle Haven's Andy Watson gave him a new set of clubs for Father's Day. Watson, a 10-handicap golfer, justified their judgment by shooting a par 70 the next time out, a round that included an eagle and four birdies.

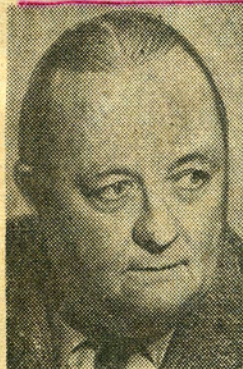

Frank Emmet notes that Kent Kittle's 75 in the rain in the Fort Meade Junior Invitation the other day was one of the best junior efforts of the season, considering that Kittle is only 14. The round, which included a 4-putt green, was not reported at the time.

The Women's District Golf Association has rescheduled the WDGA Class C Cup for August 5 at Argyle. . . . The Bethesda-Chevy Chase Optimist Club will hold its fourth annual junior championship August 3-4-5 at White Flint. Boys 16 and under are eligible, and Robert Rosenfeld is accepting entries at 8402 Connecticut avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.

District Women Golfers Face Stars in Virginia

RICHMOND, July 21 (Special).—Washington area hopefuls had their hands full today as match play opened in the Virginia Women's Amateur golf championship.

Only four of about 25 women from the Northern Virginia area survived yesterday's championship qualifying round, and of these only Mrs. Roy Smalley, club champion at Belle Haven, was conceded a chance of surviving today.

Mrs. William Walsh of the Washington Golf and Country Club had the toughest assignment. She faced Connie Gorsuch of Roanoke, 19-year-old newcomer to this tournament, who won medal honors with a 76. She is being hailed as the one to stop at long last Mary Pat Janssen's monopoly.

Miss Janssen, the Charlottesville star, has won the title the last several years and did not have to qualify. Today she met Mrs. H. L. McCarthy of Princess Anne.

Mrs. Smalley, who shot 85 yesterday—it took 87 to make it—met Mrs. Evelyn Dorn of Danville, who posted 82.

Mrs. J. A. Swink, former Belle Haven champion, who posted 86, came up against Donna O'Brien, Richmond junior girls' and women's champion. Mrs. E. W. King, Army Navy, an 85 shooter in the qualifying, faced Robbye King of Norfolk, a former Army Navy member who was regarded as one of the better junior golfers in the Washington area until she moved recently.

Two of the Washington area's bigger hopes never made it. Mrs. Charles Egenroad, club champion at Washington and runnerup here three times, had 89, and Lillian Lea of Court House, another club champion, eliminated herself with a 91.

Mrs. Walsh's first round opponent Miss Gorsuch, is the talk of the tournament.

Miss Gorsuch, daughter of the Roanoke Country Club manager, won the championship of the two Carolinas two years ago at the age of 17. She fired several rounds in the 70s in practice, but didn't begin getting rave notices until she fired a par 38 on the front nine yesterday. She had one-over-par 38 on the back nine.

Championship pairings:

(Upper Bracket)
Mary Pat Janssen, Charlottesville (DC), vs. Mrs. H. L. McCarthy, Princess Anne (83).

Mrs. Evelyn Dorn, Danville (82), vs. Mrs. Roy Smalley, Alexandria (85).
Mrs. William Pollard, Charlottesville (79), vs. Lanetta Ware, Fredericksburg (85).
Sydney Elliott, Charlottesville (82), vs. Mrs. J. G. McCready, Portsmouth (86).

Teen-Ager Takes Medal In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., July 20 (AP)—Teen-aged Connie Gorsuch, Roanoke, ripped around the rain-besieged Hermitage course in one-over-par 76 here today and won the qualifying medal in the Virginia Women's Amateur golf tournament by three strokes.

The 19-year-old college junior, who won the Carolinas women's title when she was 17 and moved to Roanoke with her family little more than a year ago, went out in even par 38 but yielded a stroke to regulation and came home in another 38.

Her showing not only gave her the medal on her first try in the State Amateur, but left a warning flag fluttering for defending champion Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, who was exempt from qualifying.

Mrs. Pollard Next

Aside from Miss Gorsuch, the only player in the field of 141 to crack 80 in the 18-hole qualifying junket was 1951 State champion Ann Pollard of Charlottesville. Mrs. Pollard had 39, 40—79.

It took an 87 to qualify for the championship flight.

After Miss Gorsuch and Mrs. Pollard in the qualifying came surprising Robbye King of Norfolk with 40, 40—80. Three-time champion Sydney Elliott of Charlottesville and three others—Mrs. Donald O'Brien of Richmond, her teen-aged daughter Donna O'Brien, and Mrs. Evelyn Dorn of Danville—were tied at 82.

There were two 83 shooters, Mrs. H. L. McCarthy of Princess Anne and Mrs. William Walsh of Arlington.

Besides the youthful Miss Gorsuch, a pair of 16-year-olds, Donna O'Brien of Richmond and Robbye King, Norfolk, won over veteran competitors. Miss O'Brien ousted Mrs. James Swink, Alexandria, 2 and 1, and Miss King, three down after nine holes, rallied to beat Mrs. Frances King, Arlington, 2 and 1.

16-Year-Old Misses Score Golf Upsets

RICHMOND, Va., July 22 (AP)—The truant sun finally shone on the Hermitage course Wednesday, but its reappearance proved the least of a number of shocks as two teen-aged giant-killers and two seasoned veterans shot their way into the semifinals of the state women's golf tournament.

As expected, defending champion Mary Patton Janssen and her longtime Charlottesville rival, three-time champion Sydney Elliott, advanced in the upper bracket.

But down in the lower bracket, the odds went out the window as a dauntless pair of 16-year-olds, Donna O'Brien of Richmond and Robbye King of Norfolk, sailed into the exclusive round of four.

Miss O'Brien turned in the day's most surprising piece of work, a 4 and 2 victory over the tournament medalist, 19-year-old Connie Gorsuch of Roanoke, yet Miss King was nearly as impressive in a 2 up conquest of the other half of the O'Brien golfing clan, Mrs. Doris O'Brien, who was a semifinalist last year at Hot Springs.

Miss Janessen, playing undistinguished golf at the start but improving as she went along and warmed up to her work, eliminated Mrs. Roy Smalley of Alexandria 5 and 4 in the quarterfinal round's shortest match. Miss Elliott stacked up an early advantage, lost it, then finished fast to trip the 1951 champion, Mrs. Ann Pollard of Charlottesville, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Cush Wins Corby Golf Cup For Third Time

Mrs. Frank Cush of Argyle, one of the District's seven entries in the Women's Amateur golf championship next week at Congressional, won the Women's District Golf Association's Corby Cup tournament yesterday at Congressional with a 72 minus 4 handicap for a net 68.

The Corby Cup is getting to be the favorite tournament for Mrs. Cush, the former Maryland and District champion. She also won it in 1955 and 1957.

There was some discussion as to whether she set a course record, but the pro shop reports showed she tied a competitive 72 by Mrs. Ann Barry, a former member.

Mrs. Cush took low net which left low gross to Barbara Diggs of Manor with a 79. Kathryn Diggs, Barbara's older sister, won second gross over Mrs. Helen Konopa of Argyle by matching cards after they both shot 82s.

Other net winners, in order: Mrs. R. C. Townsend of Argyle, 86-13-73; Mrs. Ben Frau-wirth of Indian Spring, 87-13-74; Mrs. Jess Nettles of Army Navy, 83-8-75; Mrs. John Connolly of Washington, 88-13-75; Mrs. Fred Chalmson of Prince Georges, 87-11-76; Mrs. E. W. King of Army Navy, 83-7-76.

And, Mrs. Hartwell MacCartney of Kenwood, 86-9-77, and Mrs. G. W. Calvert of Washington, 90-13-77.

Corby Cup at Columbia

Mrs. Cush Ties Record

Mrs. Frank Cush equalled the women's course record of 72 yesterday at Columbia Country Club and won the annual Corby Cup tournament with a net score of 68.

The Maryland State amateur champion, an entrant in next week's USGA women's amateur at Congressional, was 37, 35 over the long Connecticut ave. course to match the old mark set several years ago in a club tournament by Mrs. Ann Barry.

The Argyle Club golfer used a four stroke handicap to win her first Corby Cup by a margin of five strokes.

Because of Mrs. Cush's decision to take the more important net prize, Barbara Diggs fell heir to first gross with 79. Her sister, Kathryn, was second gross with 82.

Mrs. R. C. Townsend of Argyle carried off second net with 86-13-73. Other net winners were: Mrs. Ben Frau-wirth, Indian Spring, 87-13-74; Mrs. Jess Nettles, Army-Navy, 83-8-75; Mrs. John Connolly, Washington, 88-13-75; Mrs. Fred Chalmson, Prince Georges, 87-11-76; Mrs. E. Star Golf Trophy Won By Mrs. Don Thomas

Mrs. Donald Thomas, a Navy captain's wife, ended a season-long famine for Army Navy Country Club women golfers in Women's District Golf Association Cup tournaments by winning the Class B section of The Evening Star Cup tournament yesterday at Washington Golf and Country Club.

It was an unusually high scoring day for the 13-17 handicap players. Mrs. Thomas won low net with a 90 minus 16 handicap for a net 74. Her 90 also was the low gross score of the day. The winner took the cup.

Mrs. Thomas, who won a prize in a Class C tournament this year before reducing her handicap to the B classification, played in District Women's events several years ago before her husband was transferred to California. They returned to the Washington area several months ago.

Mrs. Thomas, playing the course for the second time, had a 45 on each nine. Her score might have been a stroke or two lower, but she forgot they were playing winter rules and played summer rules most of the round.

With Mrs. Thomas taking The Star Cup for low net, there was a tie for low gross between Mrs. Walter Densmore of Belle Haven and Mrs. Francis Peters of Army Navy with 92s. Mrs. Densmore, whose out nine of 43 was the lowest nine-hole score of the day, won by matching cards.

Mrs. Peters last week won the Tribby Cup at her home club with rounds of 85 and 91.

Other net prize winners, in order:

Mrs. Art Frank of Prince Georges, 94-17-77; Mrs. Peters, 92-14-78; Mrs. H. H. Goodman of Washington, 93-14-79; Mrs. J. O. Beckner of Army Navy, 94-15-79; Mrs. D. R. Monsees of Washington, 96-17-79; Mrs. W. W. Teeter of Belle Haven, 96-17-79; Mrs. R. B. Kadel of Army Navy, 97-17-80; Mrs. J. G. Schnitzer of Washington, 94-14-80 and Mrs. Allen Henkin of Indian Spring, 96-15-81.

Five with net scores of 81 were matched out of the prize list, Mrs. M. H. Shrenk of Mrs. Murphy's 93 was the low gross score by six strokes, but she took the cup as is the custom. Mrs. Giles Morrow of Manor and Mrs. J. C. Angsten of Washington tied for low gross with 99s. They were even after the cards were matched, and Mrs. Morrow finally won in a draw.

Mrs. Geddes Loses Out In Playoff

By Maury F. Fitzgerald
Staff Reporter

Mrs. R. G. Luckie lived up to her name yesterday in winning the second annual Women's District Golf Association senior championship at Congressional Country Club.

Mrs. Luckie finished with 91-17-74 to tie Mrs. James R. Geddes of the host club. Mrs. Geddes had 95-21-74.

When tournament officials ordered a playoff for the title, Mrs. Luckie discovered that an Army Navy clubmate had taken her clubs and shoes back to the club.

With a set of borrowed sticks and a pair of shoes a little on the large size, Mrs. Luckie ended the quick-death playoff on the first hole, getting a par four to Mrs. Geddes' five.

Eight on 14th Hole

The new champion was out in 46 back in 45, while Mrs. Geddes was 48-47 with a disastrous eight on the 14th hole.

Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, former U. S. champion from Kenwood, was the gross winner, 88. Mrs. Meckley, only player in the field of 60 to break 90, had 43 on the front nine and 45 on the back.

Mrs. Harold Lewis, defending champion from Prince Georges, tied Mrs. W. E. Teeter of Belle Haven for third net with 78. Mrs. Lewis had a gross of 91 and Mrs. Teeter 95.

TEE TO GREEN

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

At a pro tournament the other day, George Diffenbaugh of Kenwood was telling about a round he played recently with one of his pupils, a perfectionist who became infuriated every time he hit a poor shot.

"I kept telling him to forget those bad shots," George was saying, "to completely forget about them."

The next time out, George was playing with his pupil and a friend of the latter. On the first hole the student hooked his tee shot into the rough and then flubbed his second. He hit his third shot short of the green, chipped on in four, and dropped the putt for a five.

"What did you have?" the third member in the group asked as he prepared to jot down the scores.

"Four," Diffenbaugh's pupil replied.

"Four," the scorekeeper screamed, "I saw you drive in the rough, miss a shot, out in three, on in four and one putt. How do you get four out of that?"

"On the advice of my professional, I forgot the flubbed shot," the pupil replied, with a wink at George.

Washington has 25 of the 97 entries in next week's USGA Junior Girls' golf championship at Manor Country Club. However, those who suggest that the winner will come from the District delegation have underestimated the caliber of the visitors.

One of the visiting young ladies under 18 happens to be the women's champion of Maine, 16-year-old Martha Page of Bridgton.

And another is Donna O'Brien, the Richmond city champion and runnerup for the Virginia State women's championship. Also there's Diana Hoke of Pittsburgh, a semifinalist in last year's USGA Junior Girls' tournament.

The best showing of any area entrant was made by Mrs. Joseph Singhass, the former Mary Ann Musser of All View, who was a semifinalist in 1956.

Anne Quast, who will defend her USGA Women's Championship starting Monday, August 24 at Congressional, will give a clinic for the junior girls Sunday afternoon at Manor. On Monday, the record field of 97 will play for 32 match-play berths.

40 Young Stars To Compete for Girls Golf Title

A field of 40 of the area's top girl golfers will seek Lillian Lea's vacated title in the District junior girls' championships Tuesday and Wednesday at Manor Country Club.

All 25 of the area girls who will compete in the USGA junior tournament August 17-22 at Manor are entered. Both tournaments are restricted to girls 17 years of age and under and Miss Lea, Court House champion, now is over the age limit.

Among the promising players entered in the 36-hole District tournament are Janie Bostrom of Prince Georges, Beverly Jones of Court House, Florence Zupnik, Woodmont club champion; Bettina Boss of Chevy Chase and Pam August of Argyle.

Jane Bostrom Rules Choice In Girls Golf

Jane Bostrom, a 16-year-old golf starlet from Prince Georges, is in the midst of the first of the biggest two weeks of her budding golf career. She is favored to win her first District Junior girls' championship today at Bethesda Country Club.

Jane shot an 85 in the first round of the 36-hole tournament at Bethesda yesterday for a two-stroke lead over Pam August of Argyle and Beverly Jones of Court House, who had 87s. Miss August's round was featured by a hole-in-one she didn't see roll into the cup.

Jane's 85 was the lowest round in this tournament in the last three years. It included a 41 on the back nine. Next week, Jane is hopeful of a good showing in the USGA Girls' Junior championship at Manor Club. She has won two of the girls' 18-hole cup tournaments this year.

Miss August made her ace on the 145-yard 17th, a hole with an elevated green, which accounts for her being unable to see the ball go into the cup.

Tina Boss of Chevy Chase and Kay Kittle of the host club were next with 89s. It was the first time Miss Kittle broke 90.

Lillian Lee, last year's winner, is over the age limit.

One of the outstanding scores of the first day was a 95 by Carol Carragher of Bethesda, who is 13 years old.

The leaders:

Jane Bostrom, Prince Georges	85
Pam August, Argyle	87
Beverly Jones, Court House	87
Tina Boss, Chevy Chase	89
Kay Little, Bethesda	89
Mary McCahon, Court House	93
Robyn Gingerich, Manor	95
Carol Carragher, Bethesda	95
Carol Hauser, Manor	97
Joyce Chatlin, Indian Spring	98

Janie Bostrom Leads Girls Amateur Golf

Janie Bostrom took the first day lead in the 36-hole District girls amateur championship yesterday with 85 but had to share the limelight with Pamela August who had a hole-in-one.

Pamela August

Miss Bostrom, representing Prince Georges Club, was out in 43 and back in 42 over Bethesda Country Club's course and took a two stroke lead over the field.

Miss August, of Argyle, who knocked a 4-iron shot into the cup for an ace on the 145-yard 17th hole, was 45, 42—87 to be bracketed with Beverly Jones of Court House in second place. Miss Jones was 45, 42.

Tina Boss of Chevy Chase and Kay Kittle of the host club posted rounds of 89 to finish in a tie for fourth place. Miss Boss was 47, 42 while Miss Kittle had nines of 44 and 45.

Next came little Mary McCahon Of Court House with 48, 45—93. Carol Carragher of Bethesda had 95. Other leaders: Rolyn Gingerich, Manor, 97; Carol Hauser, Manor, 97; and Joyce Chatlin, Indian Spring, 98.

Twenty players in the field of 27 are entered in next week's USGA Junior Girls championship at Manor Country Club.

Pamela August Takes Girls Junior Golf Title

Bostrom Beats Jones For Second

By Maury Fitzgerald
Staff Reporter

Pamela August of Argyle Country Club is the new District junior girls golf champion.

The pretty 15-year-old, who made her first hole-in-one during Tuesday's first round of the 36-hole tournament, posted a second round of 87 yesterday at Bethesda Country Club to win with 174.

Miss August started the day in a tie for second place but her round of 46-41 gave her the title by a two-stroke margin.

Janie Bostrom of Prince Georges, the first day leader with 85, skidded to 91 and a second place tie with Bev Jones of Court House. The long-hitting Miss Bostrom finished with 176 and then beat Miss Jones on the third hole of a quick-death playoff for second place.

The 13 and under title went to Carol Carragher of the host club, 95-102-197. Valerie Langhenry, Manor, was second, 208.

Robyn Gingerich, Manor, 95-104-199, won the 14-15 year championship. Donna Robert, Manor, 209, was second.

Miss Jones fell heir to the 15-16 year title, 87-89, and Mary McCahon, Court House, finished second with 191. Tina Boss, Chevy Chase, won the 16-17 year division with 89-90-179.

Pam August Rates Best Bet Among Area Junior Golfers

Pam August, a 15-year-old junior at Northwood High School, proved with the pressure on yesterday that she is the District's best bet in the USGA Junior Girls' golf championship next week at Manor Country Club.

The pretty, petite Miss August won the District girls junior title at Bethesda Country Club with a second straight 87 for 174.

Pam trailed Jane Bostrom of Prince Georges by two strokes after 18 holes. She was out in 46 on the second round. But she returned in 41 to win and better her score in last year's tournament by 14 strokes.

Miss Bostrom followed her 85 with a 91 that included one four-putt green and five three-putters. She won second place in a playoff over Beverly Jones of Court House. Bev had 87-89. After halving the first two holes with Miss Bostrom, she lost the third in the playoff.

Miss August undoubtedly could make the Northwood High golf team next spring, but girls are not permitted to play on the team. Almost all of the girls in yesterday's tournament will attempt to qualify for the USGA Junior on Monday at Manor.

Tina Boss of Chevy Chase, 16-year-old Madeira School student, was the 16-17 class winner with 89-90-179. Miss Jones, 15-year-old Falls Church High student, won in her class with 87-89. Robyn Gingerich of Manor, a Sherwood High student, won the 14-year class with 95-104-199, and Carol Carragher of Bethesda, 12 years old, won the 13-and-under with 95-102-197 to 108-100-208 for Valerie Langhenry of Manor.

Gamest girl of the tournament was Pat Rinaldi of Manor, whose drive from the 18th tee caromed off a tree and struck her right between the eyes. She had a vicious headache and her eyes were almost closed when she putted out on the 18th, but she completed her round.

TEE TO GREEN

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

The USGA Girls' Junior championship is 10 years old and five of its winners have been Marlene Bauer, the ladies' PGA star; Pat Lesser, the 1955 Women's Amateur champion; Mickey Wright, the Women's National Open champion the last two years; Wiffi Smith, the 1956 British women's champion, and JoAnne Gunderson, the 1957 Women's Amateur champion.

The 11th edition of this championship starts tomorrow at Manor Country Club, and those who are under the impression that this is a minor tournament for girls under 18 who are relative novices are sadly mistaken.

The USGA Girls' Junior field of over 90 players includes at least five State champions—not junior champs but State champions—and on past performances will produce a national champion in the Women's Amateur or Open within two or three years.

"Girl golfers mature much faster than boys," John English, the USGA representative was saying yesterday at Manor. "It's usually five or six years before the boys' junior champion becomes a national figure, but the winner of the girls' junior this week very likely will be a national champion in two or three years. And she'll be a prominent contender for the Women's Amateur next week at Congressional."

With due respect to the District's junior girls' program, it would appear from the records that the local players will be fortunate to gain more than two or three of the qualifying places in the match play rounds, even though Washington had 25 of the original entry of 97. The low 32 will start match play Tuesday morning.

It's virtually impossible to select a favorite from girl golfers from 48 States, but here's a brief rundown on some of the leading contenders:

Sandra Haynie of Austin, Tex., who recently became the first player to hold the Texas Women's title and the State women's public links title the same year. She weighs 93 pounds and is a candidate for Golf Digest's "Most Beautiful Golfer of 1959."

Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., is the youngest Wisconsin State champion in tournament history. She defeated Mrs. John Clauder, six-time winner, 7 and 6, in the finals.

Donna O'Brien is the Richmond city champion and runnerup in the Virginia State to Mary Pat Janssen. She's the daughter of Don O'Brien, a former Georgetown University golf star.

Nancy Way of Grand Rapids, Mich., is the Western Michigan women's champion. Sharon Fladoos of Dubuque, Iowa, was a semifinalist in this tournament in 1956 when she was 14. She's currently featured in Sports Illustrated.

Judy Torluemke of St. Louis is the Missouri women's champion, former National Pee-Wee winner, and when she was 11 years old missed by only two shots of qualifying for the match play rounds of this tournament.

Darlene Anderson of St. Louis, Minn., is the Minnesota junior and women's public links champion, and also one of the five finalists in the "Most Beautiful Golfer" contest.

Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, is playing in this tournament for the sixth time and in the recent $7,500 women's open in her home town she was second amateur and finished with rounds of 74-78-79.

At least three of the girls have golfing backgrounds. Margot MacKenzie is Roland's daughter. Diana Hoke of Pittsburgh, a semifinalist last year, is the granddaughter of Bobby Cruickshank, and Marsha Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., is the niece of Bob Hamilton, the former PGA champion.

There's no admission to the tournament at Manor, and it'll be one of the best golf shows of the season.

97 Girl Golfers to Open U. S. Play Tomorrow

Ninety-seven of the Nation's finest girl golfers will play an 18-hole qualifying round tomorrow at Manor Country Club in the 11th annual USGA girls' junior championship.

The field will be reduced to 32 tomorrow night for the first round of match play Tuesday morning. The second and third rounds will be played Wednesday, the semifinals Thursday, and the 18-hole finals Friday morning at 9:30.

There will be consolation tournament for the first-round losers Wednesday at Columbia Country Club.

Anne Quast, who will defend her USGA women's championship starting a week from tomorrow at Congressional, will give a clinic for the girls this afternoon at Manor.

The record field tops last year's entry of 84 at Greenwich, Conn., and includes 25 from the District, including Pam August of Argyle, the new District girls' junior champion.

The tournament was open to girl golfers who did not reach their 18th birthdays by midnight of August 21. The winner will be an automatic qualifier for the Women's Amateur championship at Congressional.

Junior Girls Golf Opens Here Today

"Drive for show and putt for dough," Anne Quast told a group of USGA junior girls championship contestants during a clinic yesterday at Manor Country Club.

The USGA women's amateur champion, who will attempt to become the first player to successfully defend the women's title Aug. 24-29 at Congressional, advised the youngsters to sharpen up their short games. "Most matches," she told them, "are won around the greens."

Ninety-seven youngsters will tee off today at Manor in quest of 32 match play places in the USGA Junior Girls' Championship. Of that number, 25 will be youngsters from Washington area clubs. D. C. Junior Champion Pamela August and Janie Bostrum head the list.

Most of the contestants played their final practice rounds yesterday, but only Sandra Jane Hanie of Austin, Tex., boasted a good score. The pretty Texan had 77.

Diana Hoke, pretty young granddaughter of Pittsburgh professional Bobby Cruickshank, had 79 in a practice round on Saturday.

But yesterday, Miss Hoke, who went to the semifinals in the 1958 championship and is a heavy favorite to win this year, didn't divulge her score, saying, "I played pretty bad."

Fourteen-year-old Judith Torluemke of St. Louis, Mo., had 79 yesterday.

Upsets Proving Quality Of National Girls Field

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY
Star Staff Writer

Any doubts as to the quality of the field in the National Girl's golf championship should be dispelled after yesterday's first round of match play at Manor Country Club. Five of the contestants who have been accepted for next week's Women's Amateur championship at Congressional lost in the first round in their bid for the girls' title.

The Women's Amateur accepted nine girls who were entered in USGA Girls' Junior. Sandra Haynie, the Texas champion; Diana Hoke, the medalist from Pittsburgh; Carol Sorenson, the youngest Wisconsin women's titlist in history, and Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, were the only survivors of the nine.

Even the girls' championship has a form sheet and it took a beating yesterday when Iowa's Sharon Fladoos, Judy Torluemke, the Missouri women's titlist, and Donna O'Brien, the Virginia State runnerup, were eliminated.

Unable to Break 76

After the qualifying and first-round matches, the tournament's co-stars are Miss Hoke and Andrea Schaffer of San Francisco, the co-medalists. They tied for the medal with 76s and no one was able to get lower than that yesterday.

Miss Hoke, a semifinalist in this tournament last year, won 6 and 5 over Mary Lowell of Alameda, Calif. For 13 holes, Diana was one over men's par. She was out in 36 and started back 5-2-4-4.

But Diana could have her hands full in the second round against Margot Morton of Indiana, Pa., who says she's been playing in this tournament so long she doesn't see any familiar faces. Margot is a five-time club champion at 16, and in six trips to the national junior has made the title flight five times.

In Opposite Brackets

Miss Schaffer played her round out against Miss O'Brien and posted a 77 in a 3 and 2 victory. She is in the opposite bracket from Miss Hoke and they couldn't meet until the finals Friday morning.

The championship still has its glamour girl, the beautiful 17-year-old Darlene Anderson of St. Louis Park, Minn., the State public links champion. But today Darlene met Miss Sorenson, the Wisconsin champion, and she will be the underdog.

But Miss Fladoos played some of the best golf of the day before she lost to Heidi Prentice of Wilmette, Ill., 2 and 1. The latter is the top junior in Illinois and has a good record in State senior competition. Both would have broken 80 had they played the round out.

Miss Torluemke, only 14, lost 3 and 1 to an 81 by Judy Loftfield of Phoenix, who is complaining about Washington's mild temperatures. "It's 110 at home," she said. "I wish it would get hotter."

The other losers who have qualified for the Women's Amateur are Martha Painter of Corpus Christi, Tex., who lost yesterday to Marsha Hamilton, niece of the former PGA champion, Bob Hamilton, and Louise Dumler of Cincinnati, a 4 and 3 victim of Jane Hawkins of Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

The caddies often are closer to picking winners than the experts and one of their favorites is Patricia David of Tulsa, who won, 6 and 5, over Melissa Baker of Maryville, Tenn., with two-over par golf. Girls' par is 73.

One of the tournament sensations continues to be 10-year-old Victoria Jenssen of Great Barrington, Mass., who won her first-round match in the fourth flight over Sue McGrattan of Williamsville, N. Y., 1 up in 19 holes.

Victoria has a pony tail that reaches her waist and she carries an umbrella to shield the sun. She steps up to the ball and hits it with the aplomb of a champion.

Jane Bostrom of Prince Georges, the only Washington area qualifier, lost to June Woodman of Wichita, Kans., 2 and 1 after winning four straight holes on the front nine to lead 1 up.

A former Washington junior,

Robbye King, formerly of Army Navy and now of Norfolk, lost to Patricia Park of Metropolis, Ill., also 2 and 1.

First-round results:
Andrea Schaffer, San Francisco, defeated Donna O'Brien, Richmond, Va., 3 and 2.
Marsha Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., defeated Martha Painter, Corpus Christi, Tex., 2 and 1.
Sandra Haynie, Austin, Tex., defeated Patricia Ann Keating, Great Neck, N. Y., 2 and 1.
Jane Hawkins, Mount Pleasant, Iowa, defeated Louise Dumler, Cincinnati, 4 and 3.

Darlene Anderson, St. Louis Park, Minn., defeated Donna Litke, State College, Pa., 6 and 4.

Carol Sorenson, Jamesville, Wis., defeated Marianne Gable, Arcadia, Calif., 5 and 4.

Judy Loftfield, Phoenix, defeated Judith Torluemke, St. Louis, 3 and 1.
Patricia Park, Metropolis, Mich., defeated Robin Beard, Reading, Pa., 6 and 5.

Diana Hoke, Pittsburgh, defeated Mary Lowell, Alameda, Calif., 6 and 5.
Margot Morton, Indiana, Pa., defeated Nancy Way, Grand Rapids, Mich., 7 and 5.

Melissa Baker, Maryville, Tenn., defeated Patricia David, Tulsa, 6 and 5.
Patricia Park, Metropolis, Ill., defeated Robbye King, Norfolk, 2 and 1.

Judy Rand, Aurora, Ohio, defeated Penny Page, Bridgton, Maine, 4 and 3.
Martha Page, Bridgton, Me., defeated Jeannie Thompson, Tulsa, 4 and 3.

Heidi Prentice, Wilmette, Ill., defeated Sharon Fladoos, Dubuque, Iowa, 2 and 1.

June Woodman, Wichita, Kans., defeated Jane Bostrom, Landover, Md., 2 and 1.

Pairings: Schaffer vs. Hamilton; Haynie vs. Hawkins; Anderson vs. Sorenson; Loftfield vs. Shook.

Hoke vs. Morton; David vs. Park; Rand vs. Martha Page; Prentice vs. Woodman.

Women's

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Women Golfers to Tee Off Here in Championship

By Rosemary Donihi

THE 59th Women's Amateur Championship of the United States Golf Association will be held August 24-29 at the Congressional Country club. This ranking event in golfing circles, which annually fixes the Nation's top woman amateur golfer, was last held here at the Chevy Chase Club in 1908. It is of special interest to the Women's Golf Associations of the 29 U.S.G.A. member clubs within 20 miles of the White House, all of whom gathered to pledge their support at the Congressional Club, last April.

This year, for the first time, participation has been limited to no more than 128 foremost women golfers from the U. S. and the world. All must be approved before participation, by the U. S. Golf Association. Last year, entries topped 185.

The 1958 amateur champion, Anne Quast, winner of last year's contest at the Wee Burn Country Club at Darien, Conn. will defend her title. Miss Quast is a senior at Leland Stanford University, First European participant to sign in, is the new British champion, Elizabeth Price.

THE sponsoring U. S. Golf Association officials will be bedded down at the clubhouse which leaves the host of feminine golfing elite to be put up in the neighborhood. This specific assignment and special entertainments for the guests are the responsibility of busy, busy Women's Golf Association chairman, Nina Crampton.

Other especially harried Congressional clubbers are Carolyn Geddes, co-chairman of the program committee; Barbara Flatley, chairman of registrations; Estelle McCord, chairman of accommodations, and Margaret Murphy, chairman of the inter-club liaison committee.

Mid-Atlantic area women, whose handicaps are under six and therefore qualify them for entrance, number five. They are Mary Ann Downey and Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore; the Eastern Shore's University of Maryland sophomore, Jane Schiller, and D. C. section finalists, Mrs. Frank Cush and Georgia Mae McKeever.

SENIOR MALE members at Columbia Country Club will have their annual tournament for the McInerny Trophy June 25, and at the Army-Navy Club, it's an inter-service struggle coming up July 4. This is to be strictly on a within-the-club basis, with Army, Navy and Air Force pitted one against the other.

NEWS at the Chevy Chase Club for members, from grandfather down, is the brand new, beautiful swimming pool.

SHE'LL DEFEND HER TITLE—Champion U. S. amateur woman golfer for 1958, Anne Quast, will come to Washington to defend her title at the 59th Women's Amateur Championship of the U. S. Golf Association to be held August 24-29 at the Congressional Country Club. It is the National Tournament's first trip here in over 50 years. It was last held at Chevy Chase Club in 1908.

Ladies are welcomed at next Wednesday's Deane Beman luncheon at the Hotel Statler, according to Harry Merrick, chairman of the affair honoring the 21-year-old British amateur champion. Somehow word had spread that it was a stag luncheon, and this had created some confusion among ticket buyers.

In fact, the head-table guests at the 12:15 luncheon will be Deane's mother and his wife, Miriam.

The Washington Board of Trade, which is sponsoring the luncheon, will borrow the British Amateur trophy from Bethesda Country Club, where the big cup is resting until Deane returns to defend his title next year. The medal Beman won for permanent possession also will be on display.

The motorcade will leave the University of Maryland Field House at 10:15 a.m. next Wednesday. The next stop will be Colesville road and Spring street in Silver Spring, several blocks from his home, where he will be greeted by the Silver Spring Board of Trade.

Bethesda will greet the motorcade at Bethesda - Chevy Chase High School, and the next stop will be the District Building, where Commissioner Karrick will present the keys to the city.

Tickets may be obtained at the Washington Board of Trade, 1616 K street, the Silver Spring Board of Trade, Fortunata's at 7206 Wisconsin avenue in Bethesda, and the Sportsman, 7012 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda.

The United States Golf Association advises that the field for the Women's Amateur championship August 24-29 at Congressional will be limited for the first time in the tournament history. The 128 applicants with the lowest handicaps will be accepted. Last year 195 entered at Darien, Conn., and it took an extra round or eight in six days, to determine the champion.

Entries are open to women amateurs with handicaps not over six strokes. It may take a five to get in, so the District women golfers who are anxious to compete had better head for the practice tee. Entrants must be a member of a USGA member club, and have a handicap based on the USGA system. Entries close August 6.

The Middle Atlantic pros will have their annual Pro-Pro tournament at Sherwood Forest on Friday. This is family day, with swimming and boat rides for the wives and children and a crab feast after the golf. The schedule was too crowded to fit in on a Monday date this year, and the Friday date may hurt attendance.

The National Press Club has its annual tournament scheduled Tuesday at Belle Haven, according to Fred Perkins, golf committee chairman. The Jim Preston Memorial Bowl, honoring the long-time superintendent of the Senate Press gallery, will be inaugurated this year. Players may tee off between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Frank Emmet is accepting entries until 6 p.m. Friday for the 9th annual Bubby Worsham Memorial Junior tournament scheduled Tuesday through Thursday at Bethesda CC. This is the only area junior tournament where boys under 21 are eligible. Maximum age for the others is 17.

The Ocean City Golf and Yacht Club will have its dedication ceremonies on Saturday, featuring an exhibition match at 11:30 a.m. with John O'Donnell and Charley Bassler of Baltimore, Tony Longo, a trick short artist, and Rut Coffey, the host pro, as the participants.

The top women golfers of Maryland and the District are flocking to Cumberland for the annual 36-hole invitation tomorrow and Friday. . . . Columbia Country Club's big senior tournament and party will be played tomorrow. . . . The Middle Atlantic seniors tournament will be held Friday and Saturday at the Farmington Club in Charlottesville. Martin McCarthy is accepting entries. . . . Latest threat to the caddie profession is the world's first remote control radio golf caddie, operated by push buttons, and priced at approximately $200. It is rumored that Tommy Bolt will make the first purchase of a caddie that can't talk back.

Polly, a Texas girl, won the title with 230 for 54 holes and Barbara, only 20, was runnerup with a final score of 75 for the final round. Both girls play in the women's National Amateur at the Congressional, Aug. 24-29.

Miss Quast Favored To Keep Golf Crown

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

Anne Quast, 21-year-old defending champion and favorite in the 59th Women's Amateur golf championship, draws a potentially troublesome opponent in the first round tomorrow at Congressional Country Club.

Miss Quast, from Everett, Wash., plays Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, N. C., at 12:26 p.m. in what appears to be the feature of the 64 first-round matches. Miss Burns is a regular on the women's amateur circuit, and was medalist with 72 this year in the South Atlantic championship in Florida.

Joseph C. Dey, jr., executive director of the United States Golf Association, explained that 11 players who have records of unusual merit were distributed through the eight eighths of the draw. It is a form of seeding, although the USGA does not use the term seeding.

May Meet JoAnne

Miss Quast is in the third quarter of the draw and JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle, the 1957 Women's Amateur champion and current Western titlist, is in the fourth quarter. Thus they could meet in the semifinals, where they met last year with Quast winning.

Play starts at 8:30 tomorrow morning and there is a match every six minutes until 2:48. The second round is set for Tuesday, two rounds Wednesday, quarter-finals Thursday, semifinals Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Two of the better early matches tomorrow are Elizabeth Price, the British women's champion, against Sandra Clifford of Mexico, recent winner of the German championship, at 9:24, and Mrs. Dorothy Germain Porter, 1949 National champion, against Carol Sorenson, Western Junior champion, at 9:42.

Other Stars Play

The second quarter of the draw, which will produce one of the semifinalists, is loaded with talent. It includes Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, 1953 British champion, 1956 United States champion and recent winner of the Canadian title for the sixth time, Judy Eller of Tennessee, Joanne Goodwin, Polly Riley and Mary Ann Downey. Miss Riley has made the round of 16 for 12 straight years.

One of the most interesting of the second quarter matches tomorrow should be Judy Rand, the new National girls champion, against the veteran Maureen Orcutt of New York.

Mrs. Frank Stranahan, wife of the pro star, is in the third quarter with Miss Quast and Barbara McIntyre. Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottesville, former British finalist, is in the fourth quarter with Miss Gunderson.

Georgia Mae McKeever, the District champion, meets Cecilia Ann Wakin of Middlesboro, Ky., in the first round. Mrs. C. Lincoln Jewett and Barbara Berry of Congressional, Mrs. Helen Knoopa of Argyle, the Diggs sisters, Barbara and Kathryn of Manor, and Mrs. Edward C. Ferriday of Chevy Chase are the other District players entered.

The players' dinner was held last night at Congressional. All of the contestants will play or practice at the club today.

Admission will be $2 tomorrow and Tuesday, $2.50 Wednesday and Thursday, $3 Friday and $3.50 for Saturday's final.

Area Entries Get 5 Spots In Amateur

The 42 Maryland and District entries in the National Amateur golf championship will play for five places to the tournament September 14-19 at Colorado Springs in sectional qualifying rounds September 1 at the Suburban Club in Baltimore.

The District has two automatic qualifiers who have entered in Deane Beman, the British Amateur champion from Bethesda C. C., and Jack Westland, the 1952 National Amateur champion from Burning Tree.

The championship drew a record entry of 1,709 players, and the qualifying places are on an average of one for every nine entrants.

Richmond has 34 entries who will play for four places.

The qualifying sites, with number of entrants and qualifying places:

St. Paul, 36-4; Salt Lake City, 10-1; Spokane, 18-2; Phoenix, 39-4; Los Angeles, 81-11; San Francisco, 65-7; Denver, 81-8; Jupiter, Fla., 44-4; Atlanta, 50-7; Chicago, 127-13; Des Moines, 144-14; New Orleans, 18-2; Baltimore, 42-5; Boston, 54-7; Detroit, 62-7; St. Louis, 42-5; Kansas City, 51-6; Butte, Mont., 15-2; Montclair, N. Va., 24-3.

Area Entrants

Mrs. Berry, Jewett Bow

The Washington area's two remaining entrants in the USGA Women's National Amateur championship, Barbara Berry and Mrs. C. Lincoln Jewett, were eliminated yesterday in second-round matches.

Miss Berry, a 20-year-old coed at American University, was sidelined by Mary Crawford, Georgia State champion from Americus, Ga., 6 and 5.

Mrs. Jewett, who like Miss Berry is a member of the host Congressional Country Club, was defeated by JoAnne Gunderson, 1957 USGA women's Amateur champion, 5 and 4.

Miss Crawford, 31-year-old accountant, was out in a one-over par 38 and five-up on her less experienced opponent. The long-hitting Georgian closed out the match on the 13th green.

Miss Gunderson was out in 38 and three-up on Mrs. Jewett. The 20-year-old Western Amateur champion lost the hole to Mrs. Jewett but then won the 11th, and 13th holes with pars and closed out the match on the 14th green with a birdie.

SEMIFINALS SHY ON BIG NAMES

U. S. Women's Golf Not Running to Form

By MERRELL WHITTLESEY

The Women's National Amateur golf championship has taken a most unexpected turn going into this afternoon's semifinals. There's no Anne Quast, no JoAnne Gunderson, no college girls or teen-agers, and only one member of the last Curtis Cup team is among the survivors at Congressional.

The Porter and Klinefelter children in Philadelphia, three in each family, are home asking, "Where's Mama?"

The mother of the Porter children, Mrs. Mark A. Porter, will be very busy at 2 o'clock this afternoon in a semifinals match against Joanne Goodwin, the expressionless, doll-like young lady from Haverhill, Mass., whose father is a golf pro.

Mrs. Paul F. Klinefelter, jr., has a date 20 minutes later with Barbara McIntyre, who sells real estate for her father in Lake Park, Fla., when she's not on the amateur golf circuit.

Miss Goodwin is the only one of the four who would have received a nod as a potential semifinalist after the pairings were announced. Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Klinefelter played because the tournament was close to home, and neither honestly expected to get this far. Miss McIntyre has won one title this year, at Palm Beach, Fla., but that was last winter, and besides she was in Miss Quast's bracket.

Joanne is playing in the Women's Amateur championship for only the second time. Mrs. Klinefelter, who is 31, doesn't recall playing in it previously. Mrs. Porter won the title in 1949 while expecting her first child, but in scattered other appearances she never has been past the third round. Miss McIntyre has played in it for 10 straight years.

The championship lost its top box-office draw when Miss McIntyre defeated Miss Quast, the 1958 titleholder, in a dramatic 20-hole match in which erhill, Mass., and Mrs. Paul F. Klinefelter Jr., of Philadelphia.

Miss McIntire, 1958 Western Amateur champion and a member of the 1958 Curtis Cup team, won the 18th hole to square the match and then beat the champion with a par on the treacherous par three twentieth hole in a quick-death playoff.

Both Miss McIntire and Miss Quast had 74s for the regulation 18 holes. The winner was out in 38 and one-down to the champion at the turn. She won the first and fourth holes with birdies to take a two-up lead on Miss Quast but the champion won the sixth and seventh holes with pars to square the match and took a one-up lead of her own at eight with a birdie.

Miss Quast just missed getting an eagle at the par five 10th but her birdie from 30-inches was good enough for a win and gave her a two-hole lead. The champion made it three-up with a birdie at 12.

Miss McIntire won the 13th with a par when Miss Quast three-putted and that miscue by the champion, as the things turned out, was her undoing. At the 14th, Miss Quast chipped a 35-foot shot into the cup for a birdie but Miss McIntire followed with a curling eight-foot putt to get a half.

Miss McIntire birdied the 15th, sinking a five-foot putt for her four and then took the 16th with a par to square the match. Miss Quast won the 17th with a par and went into the 157-yard par-three 18th dormie.

Miss Quast hit a weird iron shot that sliced away from the green and wound up in heavy rough down below the green. She ended up with a five and conceded the hole to Miss McIntire who needed an 18-inch putt for her par.

They both got their pars at 19, Miss McIntire needing to get down a six-footer to get her halve. At the 20th, Miss Quast hit her tee shot short and to the right. Her approach

MISS DIMPLES WINS THE CUP

BARBARA MCINTIRE, a freshly attractive girl of 24 from Lake Park, Fla., became the 59th women's amateur golf champion in hot and humid Washington last week. She defeated the defending champion, Anne Quast, after two extra holes of an exciting quarter-finals match and then scored a final round 4 and 3 victory over Joanne Goodwin, the pretty 23-year-old daughter of a Haverhill, Mass. professional. In winning, the charmingly dimpled Barbara achieved an ambition that had eluded her in nine previous attempts.

When Barbara met Joanne in their 36-hole final it was the climax to a week of wonderfully savage competition in which 20 matches had ended on the 18th green and 13 had gone into extra holes. In the morning both played sharp golf, but Barbara, on the basis of longer hitting and a surer short game, took a one-hole lead. After lunch Joanne suddenly began to spray her shots off line, and Barbara, hitting the ball with increasing assurance, sped to a 4-up lead after 26 holes and then matched Joanne's pars on the final seven holes. Joanne, with her cross-handed putting grip, made a brave attempt to get even, going for birdie putts of 13, 14, 9, 12, 7 and 10 feet on the last six holes; but she missed them all to find herself the runner-up in an important tournament for the fourth time this year.

Two dramatic matches attracted particular attention during the earlier rounds of the tournament. JoAnne Gunderson, who had won this championship in 1957 when she was only 18, came to Washington as a strong co-favorite, along with Miss Quast, the defending champion. She sailed easily through her early matches, but on Tuesday she began feeling lightheaded from the heat, went to bed with a headache and slept less than four hours. She felt no better the next day and late that afternoon reached the end of her physical reserves. Her concentration vanished abruptly during her fourth-round match with Mrs. Rosann Klinefelter, and she began hitting one terrible shot after another. She finally lost the match one down.

The following day Miss Quast was also bumped from the competition. Coming to the 18th in her quarter-final match with Barbara McIntire, Anne needed only to halve the hole, a par 3 of 157 yards across an artificial lake, for a victory. But she sliced her tee shot so badly that it ricocheted off the right-hand bank of the green and kicked into deep grass. She lost the hole to Miss McIntire's par, and lost her crown 25 minutes later when she bogeyed the par-3 20th hole, missing a six-foot putt, while Miss McIntire once again earned a par and went on from there to become the new champion.

USGA Amateur Title
Rewards Long, Patient Quest

Sometimes it must appear that a national golf championship is held for the exclusive benefit of the winner. All attention is finally focused on him, and his name and fame live preeminent in the records and in public memory.

In the USGA Women's Amateur Championship, there are 127 losers; they expend much effort and money in attending. Dozens of members of the entertaining club devote thousands of hours, gratuitously, to prepare for the event, and the club underwrites considerable cost.

Why? Surely there must be values beyond the determination of a Champion.

For the players, there is the great sport of keen competition among the best—the joy of reviving friendships and making new ones with people from all over the country, and some from abroad—the simple fellowship of like-minded people interested in a wholesome sport.

For the host club, there are rewards in the pleasure of entertaining happy and appreciative guests, and in contributing to the ongoing welfare of golf.

In short, the original idea of a national championship as being a golfing party among friends still animates the occasion, even though there are the newer elements of wide public attention and prestige for the winner.

The Women's Amateur Championship nowadays has a particular zest since many of the prominent players are delightfully refreshing girls and young ladies who have recently come up through the USGA Girls' Junior Championship, which started in 1949.

And now, for the fifth time in the last six years, one who has come up through the Girls' Championship is the Women's Amateur Champion. If, contrary to the basic idea, the Championship had been staged for her especial benefit, there might have been a measure of justice in it, for Miss Barbara McIntire had been denied USGA titles on three other occasions when she was just one last step away. She played in the first Girls' Championship and was twice runner-up (1951-52). She tied for the Women's Open Championship in 1956, only to lose a play-off to Mrs. Kathy Cornelius, a professional.

The first time Miss McIntire played a match in the Women's Amateur, in 1950 as a girl of 15, she eliminated the six-time Champion, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, in the opening round. She has compiled a splendid record, including membership in our Curtis Cup team and the Western Amateur title last year. But she had never gone as far as the semi-finals of the Women's Amateur until this past August at the Congressional Country Club near Washington, D. C.

Now, at age 24, after long deferment, Miss McIntire is National Champion, and a most becoming one. She is a quiet and modest young lady, pretty and dimpled. In late years she has lived in Lake Park, Fla., where she is a real estate agent; she was raised in Toledo, Ohio, and is a graduate of Rollins College. Miss McIntire and her parents, especially her mother, have been members of the USGA championship family for a long while, and it was pleasing to see them finally take a gold medal home.

Miss McIntire stands in the tradition of those Champions who could rise to inspired heights under stress. She was 3 down in both her quarter-final and semi-final matches. In the final she was 1 up after 18 holes and after 22 holes, then played the rest of the match in one better than par for a 4-and-3 victory over Miss Joanne Goodwin, of Haverhill, Mass.

Miss Goodwin is a petite young lady of 23 who, up to the final, had played perhaps the best golf of the field:—three over par for 96 holes in six matches. She had defeated Miss McIntire twice in Southern tournaments earlier in the year, and tied Miss McIntire for second amateur prize in the USGA Women's Open. But her cross-handed putting touch de-

TEAM MATCHES TODAY

WG&CC Women Favored In Virginia State Tourney

Washington Golf and Country Club, with the home course in its favor, plus having a team with the most balance, is favored to win the Virginia State women's team championship in match play rounds today and tomorrow.

The hosts won medal honors by a 24-stroke margin yesterday with a total of 521 for the six players to 545 for Army Navy, 547 for the Country Club of Virginia in Richmond and 558 for Farmington in Charlottesville.

The low four teams comprise the championship division with Washington meeting the Country Club of Virginia and Army Navy playing Farmington today. The winners will meet tomorrow. The other teams play for division titles in three other groups.

Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottesville, the Virginia State champion, was low scorer with a 43-38—81 over the tricky course where local knowledge plays a prominent part. Mrs. Charles Egenroad of Washington was next with an 82, followed by Mrs. Howard Lady of Washington, 83; Mrs. Q. T. Legg of James River, 83, and Mrs. J. L. Rawls, jr., of Princess Anne, 83.

James River of Newport News, the defending champion, failed to qualify for the title fight with a 564 total. It will meet Hermitage (573) in the second division. Princess Anne (565) and Court House (578) will play in the other match.

Third division team scores and pairings are Belle Haven (595) vs. Winchester (612) and Langley Air Force Base (597) vs. C. C. of Petersburg (612). In the fourth division it will be Westbriar (620) vs. Kempsville Meadows (636) and Cavalier (623) vs. Indian Creek (808).

Scores for the medal-winning Washington team, former State champions, were: Mrs. Egenroad, 82; Mrs. Lady, 83; Mrs. Lloyd Dennis, jr., president of the Virginia State Women's Golf Association, 85; Mrs. William Walsh, 87; Mrs. John Connolly, 90, and Mrs. John Corson, the newly crowned club champion, 94.

Army Navy's second-place team scores were: Mrs. C. P. Phoebus, 84; Mrs. E. W. King, 85; Mrs. W. S. Stewart, 86; Mrs. N. I. Looney, 90; Mrs. P. N. Phillips, 96, and Mrs. J. T. Kaigler, 104.

Women Resume Golf Play Today

First-round play in the annual Virginia Women's golf team championship at Washington Golf and Country Club will be resumed today.

Play was suspended yesterday because of heavy rains with no players getting in more than eight holes. Match play will be resumed at the point where it was interrupted.

Finals will be played tomorrow.

D2 Friday, October 2, 1959 THE WASHINGTON POST

Army Navy, Washington Reach Final

A couple of rhubarbs marred the advance of Washington and Army Navy to the final of the Virginia State women's team match golf championship yesterday at Washington Golf and Country Club.

Washington was leading The Country Club of Virginia 5-1 when state officials ruled off the course the third foursome for slow play.

Officials ruled the match incomplete, despite the fact Washington won the first nine and was leading by three holes at the end of 15 holes.

Washington was declared a 5-1 victor.

Army Navy defeated Farmington, 5-4, and that match, too, ended in a debate. Farmington's third pair conceded their match to Army Navy at 17, thinking the match was over, but discovered later that Army Navy was dormie.

Rather than win under those conditions, Army Navy put its players back on the course, halved the 18th hole and won the match and the right to play Washington in today's championship final.

In the second division, Hermitage of Richmond eliminated James River of Newport News, 5-4; Court House defeated Princess Anne of Virginia Beach, 5½ 5½. Belle Haven won a 5-4 decision over Winchester and Langley AFB ousted C.C. of Virginia, 6-3, in the third flight.

Westbriar won the fourth division title by default.

Virginia Women's Golf To Be Decided Today

The women's golf teams of Washington Golf & Country Club and Army Navy, survivors yesterday in a pair of confusing semifinals, meet today at Washington to settle the Virginia State women's team championship.

Washington took a 6-1 victory from the Country Club of Virginia yesterday, after the third foursome was ruled off the course for slow play. The host team had built an insurmountable 5-1 margin and had won the first nine in the third match, when state officials suspended action.

The other semifinal provided more drama before Army Navy took a 5-4 decision over Farmington. In the second foursome, Miss Sydney Elliott and Mrs. Harry Brown of the latter conceded to Mrs. W. S. Stewart and Mrs. C. P. Phoebus of Army Navy after 17 holes, but later discovered the match was dormie.

Army Navy could have accepted victory, but decided to go back and play the last hole, the match reverting to a 3-3 tie with the Mrs. Stewart and Phoebus leading, 1-up, with one hole to play. They halved the 18th hole to win, 1-up, and scored 2 points to 1 for the 5-4 margin.

In other final matches today, Court House plays Hermitage of Richmond in the second flight and Belle Haven meets Langley Air Force Base in the third. Westbriar already has won the fourth flight by default.

James River of Newport

News won in 1958 but did not qualify for the championship flight this year, and yesterday lost its second-flight semifinal to Hermitage, 5-4. Court House ousted Princess Anne of Virginia Beach, 5½-3½.

Belle Haven was a 5-4 victor over Winchester and Langley eliminated CC of Virginia, 6-3.

WG&CC Women Capture State Crown for Third Time

Northern Virginia clubs swept all four brackets of the Virginia State women's team golf championships, completed yesterday at Washington Golf and Country Club.

Host Washington, competing for the seventh time, won the championship flight for the third time with a 7-2 victory over Army Navy, in a final much closer than the score indicates.

Court House took the second flight, 6-3, over Hermitage of Richmond, and Belle Haven edged Langley Air Force Base, 5-4, for the third-flight trophy. Westbriar already owned the fourth-flight title by default.

Washington's Mrs. Charles Egenroad and Mrs. John Connolly gave their team a 3-0 lead at the start with a sweep against Mrs. J. T. Kaigler and Mrs. Fred Phillips, but it was close on the second nine.

Mrs. Ned Looney and Mrs. E. W. King of Army Navy gained a 1½-1½ split with Mrs. William Walsh and Mrs.

H. R. Lady. In the third foursome, Mrs. Lloyd Dennis and Mrs. John Corson of Washington won the second nine for a 2½-2½ victory over Mrs. William Stewart and Mrs. C. P. Phoebus.

Mrs. Corson made a birdie 2 on the ninth hole to split a point on the first nine and assure Washington the necessary 5 points for victory.

Washington Takes Title

Washington Golf and Country Club won its first Virginia State women's team match championship yesterday, defeating Army Navy Country Club in the final at Washington, 7-2.

Washington took a 3-0 lead in the first foursome when Mrs. Charles Egenroad and Mrs. John Connolly scored a clean sweep in their match with Army Navy's top pair of Mrs. J. T. Kaigler and Mrs. Fred Phillips.

Mrs. William Walsh and Mrs. Harold Lady, Washington, split 1½ points apiece with the service club team of Mrs. Ned Looney and Mrs. E. W. King.

In the third and final foursome, Mrs. Lloyd Dennis and Mrs. John J. Corson, Washington, clinched victory with a 2½-½ victory over Mrs. C. P. Phoebus and Mrs. William Stewart, Army Navy.

Court House Country Club won the second-division title, defeating Hermitage Country Club of Richmond, 6-3. Belle Haven scored a 5-4 victory over Langley AFB in the third flight.

Some Golf Penalties Relaxed for Next Year

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Next year golfers will get a better break under the rules on balls hit out of bounds, unplayable and lost.

The U. S. Golf Association, which governs the sport, announced today relaxation of these penalties on a one-year trial basis, starting Jan. 1, 1960.

Here is how the new rules will work:

1. Out of bounds. At present the penalty is stroke and distance. Next year, loss of distance only.

2. Lost ball. At present, stroke and distance. Next year, loss of distance only.

3. Unplayable lie. At present, an option of stroke and distance or a redrop behind the unplayable position for a two-stroke penalty. Next year, the option will be stroke and distance or a drop behind the unplayable position for a one-stroke penalty. However, if the ball is unplayable in a bunker it must be dropped in the bunker.

The penalty for a ball hit into a water hazard—one stroke penalty without loss of distance — remains unchanged.

The USGA and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, which rules British golf, agreed on a trial for the reduced penalties next year—but in the United States alone. British golfers will continue to play the present rules.

Brooke Manor, Westbriar Make 17 Clubs in WDGA

The Women's District Golf Association accepted Brooke Manor and Westbriar Country Clubs into the association at its annual luncheon meeting and election yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

Brooke Manor is at Norbeck, Md., and Westbriar in Vienna, Va.

The two clubs bring the WDGA membership to 17 private clubs in nearby Maryland and Virginia, and will increase the tournament-playing members to over 600. The new members may make a slight change necessary in the handicap classes in order to achieve more balance.

Mrs. Paul H. Streit of Chevy Chase Club was re-elected president. Mrs. Arnold Babb of Bethesda and Mrs. Arthur Sims of Woodmont were re-elected first and second vice presidents, respectively.

Mrs. Frank K. Smith of Congressional was elected secretary, succeeding Mrs. N. J. Morgan of Belle Haven, and Mrs. Roy Lindgren of Kenwood was elected treasurer, succeeding Mrs. Ray Weisberg of Norbeck. Mrs. Fred Trew of Columbia was chairman of the nominating committee.

The 1960 tournament schedule will be announced after a meeting of the Executive Committee early next year. Mrs. Streit said a vote has decided to hold the District women's championship the third week in June, as in the past. There had been some sentiment to change the date because of school graduations, weddings and conflicting tournaments.

Tom K. Wheeler, president of the Maryland State Golf Association and new president of the District Golf Association, was the guest speaker. He said he appreciated the trouble the women golfers have in obtaining courses for tournaments because of the crowded schedules. However, he said he was confident that there would be enough courses to go around if the girls would play early and leave the courses free for the men in the afternoon.
