Abood, Williams Lead Keefer

By Bob Addie

Washington Post Staff Writer

Lisa Abood of Kenwood and Kim Williams of Bethesda Country Club, two young women more familiar with a basketball than a golf ball, led the way in the 49th annual Keefer Cup handicap tournament at Chevy Chase yesterday with net 73s.

A stroke behind in the two-day event, which concludes today, were Linda Guglielmi of Congressional and Peg Widicus of Army Navy.

Abood, a substitute teacher who graduated from the University of Maryland last year and now coaches basketball and softball in the Montgomery County high school system, was a varsity basketball player at Maryland. Williams, 18, a senior at Wootton High School in Rockville, also is a varsity basketball player. She has been playing golf only two years, but was good enough this year to play on the boys team.

A group of 67 women teed off in the misty rain, with 33 making the cut at 79. Lois Holzapple, the defending champion, qualified with a net 78.

Only Abood, who turned in a gross

77, was able to break 80 yesterday. She was out in 37 and home in 40 with eight pars and two birdies. She birdied the third hole with a 20-foot putt and birdied the par-5 eighth with a 30-footer. She missed only one fairway all day.

Williams had a 43 going out and came back in 39 for a gross 82. She carries a nine handicap to Abood's four.

Williams Captures Keefer Cup

By Dick Slay

Washington Star Staff Writer

AREA GOLF

At the finish of the golden anniversary offering of the Keefer Cup yesterday, after Kim Williams twice visited water hazards on the back nine and plugged another ball in the bank of a ditch, the 6-foot teenager sort of stomped off the course at Chevy Chase Club and declared: "That's the last time I'll ever shoot 84."

She thought she had lost. But the Keefer, like most cup events of the Women's District Golf Association, is a net tournament. And her 84, coupled with an 82 Wednesday and deducting nine handicap strokes each day, left Williams with net 148 for 36 holes, which won comfortably by three shots.

At age 18, plus six weeks and three days, Williams became the youngest Keefer winner, at least since Jackie Evans in 1969, and maybe the youngest in the entire 50-year history of this tournament, her first as an adult WDGA member.

Still, for a youngster who often plays and practices 10 hours a day at Bethesda CC and frequently attains 240 yards on her tee shots, Williams was disgusted with her 45 strokes on the back side at Chevy Chase, where women's par is 36-35-71. Her high shots were particularly affected by the windy conditions.

"I played kind of dumb on the back nine in the wind," she said. "The wind was blowing harder than I thought."

Lisa Abood of Kenwood, who tied Williams for the first-day lead with 77-73, slipped to an 82 yesterday and settled for the low gross prize with 77-82-159, followed by Carol Davies, Washingtonian, 82-79-161, Sharon Briggs, Montgomery Village, 85-86-171, and Linda Guglielmi, Congressional, 85-90-175.

Special to The Washington Post

Kim Williams, 18, a Wootton High School senior from Bethesda Country Club, won the 49th annual Keefer Cup golf tournament yesterday on her first try, with a two-day net total of 148 at Chevy Chase Club.

Williams, a nine-handicapper who said she prefers basketball to golf, won by three strokes. Lisa Abood of Kenwood, a four-handicapper who was tied with Williams for first place in the net division after the first round, took low gross prize with 77-82-159.

There was a three-way tie for the lead at 151 in the net division among Abood, Cloy Hardesty of Argyle and Jeanne Tiernan of Army Navy before Williams, playing in the final twosome, came in with a gross 82.

The Keefer Cup, named for the late Mrs. Frank Keefer, was first played in 1932 and annually opens the Women's District Golf Association tournament season.

Williams, a 6-footer who played girls varsity basketball and then golf on the boys' team for Wootton, has been playing golf only two years. She will graduate from high school next month but is undecided on which college to attend.

A power hitter who skies every drive, Williams found conditions a bit rough because of a stiff wind. She registered seven pars, a birdie on the par-5 third hole when she got on the green in two and two-putted, and a triple bogey on the par-4 14th when she took five to reach the green and two-putted.

Lisa Abood, who grew up about three blocks from Chevy Chase Country Club but had never played its golf course, and Kim Williams were deadlocked at net 73 entering today's final round of the Keefer Cup, the ancient trophy contested each year at Chevy Chase by members of the Women's District Golf Association.

Both are playing their first Keefer, but at least Williams, 18, who has been playing golf only two years, had played Chevy Chase in 1979 in her first junior tournament. Abood, 23, walked the course two days ago and yesterday shot the best medal round of anyone in the Keefer, a six-over-par, 37-40-77. She deducted four

Abood Wins WDGA Tournament

AREA
GOLF

Liza Abood, who was runner-up last month in the Women's District Golf Association championship, won one of the more important WDGA tournaments yesterday at Congressional Country Club.

The young lady from Kenwood G&CC shot 37-39-76 to win the Carpenter-Williams Cup, the only WDGA cup event that awards first prize to the low gross scorer. Abood won by three strokes from Congressional's own Arlene English, who accepted low net prize with 79-8-71, in a capacity field of 72 contestants.

Jones, Voss and Lebiecz Top Strong WDGA Field

Karen Jones of Argyle, a three-handicapper who just completed her freshman year at Oklahoma State University on a full golf scholarship, will defend her title in the Women's District Golf Association championship starting Monday at Belle Haven Country Club.

The field is strong this year, with 1978 and 1979 champion Sally Voss, who skipped the tournament last year, and three-handicapper Chris Lebiecz of Army Navy also entered.

"That makes it tough for us oldsters who make the championship flight," said Ruth Ann Verell of Belle Haven, a former WDGA president.

Jones reports that she is playing well and glad to be home. She was somewhat homesick at college, able to return home only once during the school year. She said the golf courses she played around Stillwater were not in as good condition as those in this area, "but I did learn how to play the wind shots down there," Jones said.

"I'm glad everybody's playing (in the WDGA). It's going to be good competition."

Jones acknowledged that in the back of her mind is the thought of turning professional but said she will wait and see how things develop at Oklahoma State.

Carol Davies Lillie of Washingtonian, who was married a month ago joins long-hitting sisters Jane and Liza Abood of Kenwood and Amy Geithner of Fairfax among the four-handicappers.

Geithner shot 75 in a recent member-guest over her home Country Club of Fairfax course and won the class A WRC Cup there with 76 earlier this month.

Qualifying is slated Monday, followed by a single round of match play each day through Friday.

Abood 75 Takes Medal in WDGA At Belle Haven

By Joann Stevens
Washington Post Staff Writer

Jane Abood, 19, of Kenwood shot a one-over-par 75 to win the medal in the qualifying round of the Women's District Golf Association tournament yesterday at Belle Haven Country Club.

Pam Smyth of Congressional won the senior division medal — for players 55 or older — by defeating Betty Looney of Army Navy in a one-hole play-off. Both players shot 84.

Seventy-six golfers braved blistering heat and late-afternoon tornado warnings to compete in the opening day of the 54th annual tournament.

Only three scores were in the 70s. Fran Shultz of Army Navy shot a 78 and Sally Voss of Congressional, the WDGA champion in 1978 and 1979, shot a 79. Most of the scores were in the high 90s or above. Defending champion Karen Jones of Argyle is an automatic qualifier for match play, which begins today.

Abood managed to avoid most of the pitfalls. "I putted well, played pretty smart in the wind and when I did get in trouble I made sure I saved my bogeys," said Abood, who birdied the third, eighth and 18th holes.

Abood is a recent graduate of Penn State University, where she had a golf scholarship. She has been playing seven years.

Liza Abood Stuns Champ Jones

By Joann Stevens
Washington Post Staff Writer

Liza Abood, 23, of Kenwood defeated defending champion Karen Jones of Argyle, 2 up, in the first round of the Women's District Golf Association tournament's championship flight yesterday at Belle Haven Country Club.

Abood's sister Jane, 19, followed with a 20-hole victory over Ruth Ann Verell of Belle Haven.

Other winners were Carol Lillie of Washingtonian, Kim Williams of Bethesda, Irene Packer of Belle Haven, Arlene English and Sally Voss of Congressional and Amy Geithner of Country Club of Fairfax.

In the first upset of the tournament, Liza Abood birdied the seventh and eighth holes, then managed to stay even the rest of the way to defeat Jones, who as defending champ was an automatic qualifier.

Going into the match, Abood said she was nervous, but hopeful. "I thought I had a chance," she said.

Then it was Jane Abood's turn. Verell was 5 up after nine holes and leading by one coming to the last hole. A 50-foot putt by Abood rested a few inches from the cup and she tapped in for par. Verell bogeyed to send the match into a playoff.

Verell hit her approach shot on the first extra hole fat, leading to a bogey and when Abood three-putted, the match was extended to another hole.

On the decisive hole, Verell lost the match when she took a bogey 5 after missing the green while Abood two-putted for par.

"I hit it (the putt on the first extra hole) too hard," Jane Abood said. "When I got on the green of the second hole I thought, 'You'd better not hit this one three feet past.' So I hit it short by about six inches."

Enough to win the match.

Abood Sisters, Williams, Voss Reach Semifinals

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

The Abood sisters of Kenwood, Jane, 19, and Liza, 23, won matches yesterday in the Women's District Golf Association Championships and gained today's semifinals at Belle Haven Country Club.

Medalist Jane, a junior at Penn State, where she plays on the women's golf team, sank a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to edge Arlene English of Congressional, 1 up.

She had struggled all morning but finally evened the match with a par 5 at the 16th hole when English hit her approach shot into a sand trap. They came to the par-4 18th hole all even. English hit her approach shot over the green and Abood hit the green with her second shot. English chipped 12 feet below the hole. Abood won the match when she sank the 20-foot putt.

Liza Abood, former University of Maryland basketball player and now assistant coach in that sport at Holy Cross Academy, took advantage of her long tee shots and won all three par-5 holes on the back nine to eliminate Carol Davies Lillie of Washingtonian, 2 and 1.

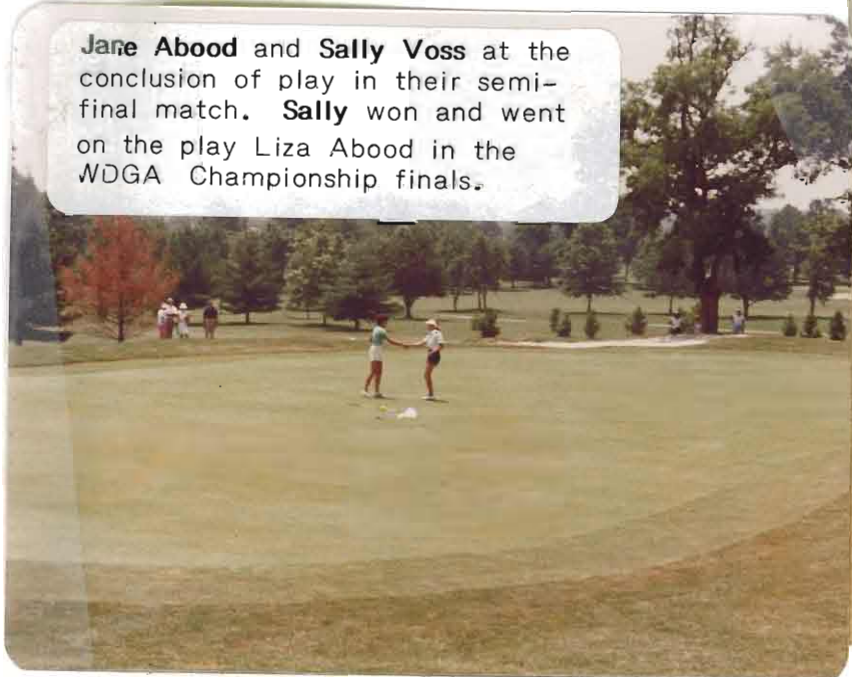

To meet in Friday's final, the sisters must beat two strong golfers today. In a battle of long hitters, Liza will play Kim Williams of Bethesda at 9:36 a.m., followed by Jane against two-time WDGA winner Sally Voss of Congressional.

Voss played the best golf of the day. She was three under women's par and defeated Amy Geithner of Country Club of Fairfax, 3 and 2. Voss, in medical school at University of California at San Francisco, once simultaneously held the San Francisco city women's title and the WDGA. Voss chipped into the hole for eagle 3 on the par-5 No. 12 hole to go 3 up on Geithner and the match ended at the 16th hole.

Williams, the Ketter Cup champion from Bethesda with very little tournament experience, broke up an even match with Irene Packer of host Belle Haven by winning four straight holes with par to begin the back nine and went on to win, 5 and 3.

Jane Abood and Sally Voss at the conclusion of play in their semifinal match. Sally won and went on the play Liza Abood in the WDGA Championship finals.

Sally Voss follows through en route to her third WDGA victory, over Liza Abood.

Voss Beats Abood, 4 and 3, For Third WDGA Title

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Sally Voss of Congressional Country Club chipped in for an eagle 3 on the eighth hole for a 3-up lead and went on to defeat Liza Abood of Kenwood, 4 and 3, for her third Women's District Golf Association championship yesterday at Belle Haven Country Club.

Voss, also a winner in 1978 and 1979, will take the trophy and run. She will leave Sunday for the University of California-San Francisco to begin her third year of medical school — "I'm halfway there. I have the M in M.D."

The Abood sisters should rejoice at her departure. Voss defeated Jane, 19, in a Thursday semifinal and the 23-year-old Liza yesterday.

Liza, an assistant basketball coach at Holy Cross Academy and substitute gym teacher at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High, trailed by two holes but had a chance to pull back into the match on the par-5 eighth hole.

Both hit good drives and second shots, and Voss was away, about 70 feet from the hole. Using her pitching wedge, she chipped the ball low, but it rolled uphill and into the cup. Abood tried to match the eagle but when her chip shot ran past the hole she was 3 down and visibly upset.

Abood missed a three-foot par putt at the ninth hole to remain 3 down and lost the par-3 10th hole when Voss hit a tee shot 10 feet from the hole and made par.

Voss' only bad hole was the par-4 11th but Abood could do no better than a matching double-bogey 6.

Voss won the match at the par-4 15th when she chipped up inches from the cup on her third shot and Abood missed a long birdie putt.

Karen Jones of Argyle, last year's WDGA champion, defeated Ruth Ann Verell of Belle Haven, 5 and 4, to win the championship consolation.

Chris Lebiedz of Army Navy beat Blanca Fortin of Columbia, 4 and 2, to win the first flight.

Voss Captures Third WDGA Championship

AREA GOLF

Sally Voss has now played in the Women's District Golf Association championship three times without losing a match. The unblemished streak — interrupted last year when she was unable to compete because of late exams in medical school — covers 12 matches.

This hasn't happened in the WDGA since Mrs. A.B. Bower won three straight years in 1948-50, but those weren't Mrs. Bower's first attempts. She also won in 1946.

A former winner of the California State and San Francisco women's titles, as well as two Maryland States, Voss was glad to regain one of her championships, with a 4-and-3 victory over Kenwood's Liza Abood yesterday at Belle Haven Country Club.

"It's a nice one to win," said the 23-year-old from Congressional CC, gazing fondly at the old silver cup overflowing with long-stemmed red roses.

Voss was runner-up in defense of her California crown last winter and she will not be able to defend her Maryland title 10 days hence because of resumption of medical school in San Francisco. At 8 a.m. this Monday she will begin the "clinical rotation" phase in radiology.

Abood, also 23, kept up with her long-hitting opponent off the tee on many of the 15 holes yesterday but admitted there was a difference in consistency.

They traded the third and fourth holes, but Voss went in front to stay with winning pars on the fifth and sixth and applied what appeared to be a crushing blow when a 25-yard pitch on the 408-yard ninth found the cup for an eagle-3. Voss also won the 10th with par and halved the rest, finishing two over par for the distance.

Finals in other flights:

Championship consolation — Karen Jones, Annapolis, def. Ruth Ann Verelli, Belle Haven, 5 and 3; First flight — Chris Lebedez, Army Navy, def. Blanca Fortin, Columbia, 2 up; Second flight — Susan Antle, Montgomery Village, def. Fran Gudely, Springfield, 1 up 19 holes; Third flight — Judy Koenick, Washingtonian, def. Ann Heuer, Congressional, 2 and 1; Fourth flight — Libby Nicholson, Army Navy, def. Pat Rubenstein, Montgomery Village, 7 and 5.

Kennedy Wins WDGA Tournament

Em Kennedy of Army Navy shot 82-12 — 70 to win the net division of the Women's District Golf Association Tournament of Champions, the final WDGA event of the season, yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

To qualify for the 60-golfer field, each player had to have won a WDGA event or been club champion.

Liza Abood of Kenwood won low gross in a match of cards against Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village after each shot 79.

Congressional Regains Team Title From Kenwood

By Dick Slay

Washington Star Staff Writer

AREA GOLF

Congressional Country Club regained the Maryland State Golf Association women's team championship that Kenwood wrested away last year, defeating Kenwood yesterday, 7½-4½, in the final matches split between the two courses.

Jane Abood was the star of the two matches at Kenwood as she equaled women's par of 71 on her home course. She and Barbara Martin swept all three Nassau points from Arlene English and Kathy Paro. But the rest was dominated by Congressional.

Pam Smyth and Rey Matthews scored, 2-1, over Kenwood's Kathy Thompson and Pam Breed, while at Congressional the home side won 5½ of the possible six points. Linda Guglielmi and Pat Turner won, 2½-½, over Liza Abood and Carol Harris, and Ann Heuer and Grace Goodall swept three from Charlotte Decker and Toni Meadows.

Interclub Junior Golf League schedule.

Manor, Robin Dale and Brooke Manor will play off for the Parks Conference title at 9 a.m. next Friday at Argyle CC, while defending champion Evergreen and Fort Belvoir meet for the Gambatese Conference crown at a course to be determined. Scores yesterday:

Adams Division at Prince George's — Robin Dale 8, Andrews AFB 7; Prince George's 5, Crofton 4. Final standings: Robin Dale 30½, Andrews 19, Crofton 18½, Belair 14, Prince George's 8.

Bowie Division at Woodmont — Brooke Manor 4, Argyle 3; Greencastle 8½, Indian Spring ½; Lakewood 4½, Montgomery Village 4½. Final standings: Brooke Manor 41½, Montgomery Village 37½, Lakewood 36, Argyle 33½, Greencastle 29, Woodmont 8½, Indian Spring 3.

Emmett Division at Manor — Columbia 7, Bethesda 2; Kenwood 6, Chevy Chase 3; Manor 8½, Congressional ½. Final standings: Manor 44½, Columbia 31½, Chevy Chase 26, Congressional 25, Kenwood 20, Bethesda 15.

Mackall Advances in Maryland Amateur

AREA GOLF

BALTIMORE - Washingtonian Country Club's Michelle Mackall, after a bout with a sudden-death playoff two days earlier, had a much easier time of it yesterday as the 61st annual Maryland State Women's Amateur Championship went into its second day of match play at the Elkridge Club.

On Monday, Mackall had to survive a playoff in order to gain the final qualifying berth.

Yesterday, the Rockville golfer found the going a little easier on the 5,500-yard course. Playing against Mary Stuart McKenzie of Baltimore Country Club, Mackall was 4-up at the turn and maintained the pace during the final nine holes to post a 4-and-3 victory.

Mackall, who finished among the top five in last year's Middle Atlantic Amateur Championship, was due to meet 16-year-old Sandy Persinger of Sparrows Point Country Club in today's semifinals of the championship flight.

Others winning their first round matches yesterday included Jane and Liza Abood of Kenwood Country Club and Karen Jones of Argyle Country Club.

Jones, Abood Sisters, Mackall Win Matches

Special to The Washington Post

BALTIMORE, July 8 — Last year's finalist, Karen Jones of Argyle, defeated Jane Mason of Nassawango on the Maryland Eastern Shore, 3 and 2, to move into the quarterfinals of the Maryland State Women's Amateur Golf Championships this afternoon at the Elkridge Club.

The Abood sisters from Kenwood also advanced, Liza beating Argyle's Peggy Startstrom, 3 and 2, and Jane downing Crofton's Marty King, 7 and 6.

The final Washington-area player to advance was Michelle Mackall of Washingtonian, who defeated Mary Stuart McKenzie of Baltimore, 4 and 3.

In Thursday morning's pairings, Jones goes against Bonnie Johnson of Maryland

Golf and Country Club, Liza Abood takes on Mary Ellen Fedor of Chartwell, Jane Abood matches up with Laurie Rusk of Talbot and Mackall meets Sandy Persinger of Sparrows Point. The semifinal round will be played Thursday afternoon.

Jones, Abood Move Into Final

Special to The Washington Post

BALTIMORE, July 9 — Karen Jones of Argyle and Jane Abood of Kenwood advanced to the final of the Maryland State Golf Association's Women's Amateur Championship today at the Elkridge Club.

Jones, who lost in the final last year to Congressional's Sally Voss, was two under par in beating Bonnie Johnson of Maryland Golf and Country Club, 7 and 5, in the morning's quarterfinal match. She then defeated Mary Ellen Fedor of Chartwell, who slipped past Kenwood's Liza Abood after 20 holes in the morning, 6 and 3, in the semifinals. Both of Jones' matches ended on the 13th green.

Jane Abood was one under par in the quarterfinals, downing Laurie Rusk, 5 and 4. In the afternoon she was three up after 12 holes to Michelle Mackall of Washingtonian.

Mackall, a 3-handicapper who beat Sandy Persinger of Sparrows Point in the morning, 3 and 2, won No. 13 and managed to match Abood for the final four holes, losing 2 and 1.

Jones and Abood will play for the championship Friday morning.

Groups Deal with Slow Growth

Golf club operators, golf associations, golf equipment suppliers and others in the golf business are deeply concerned about the sport's slow growth. Meetings of national leaders held recently to consider what can be done about golf stagnation have resulted in a restructuring of the National Golf Foundation, which has been given leadership responsibility for attacking the problem.

One of the factors threatening golf with slow death is the time it takes to play the game — the five- and six-hour round of golf which causes many people to turn to some other participant sport, like tennis or jogging.

Every organization from the USGA and PGA down to the smallest club golf committee is constantly searching for magic solutions to slow play. One that seems to have found an answer is the Women's District Golf Association for the Washington area, probably one of the best organized and best run golf associations in the country.

"Our rules impose penalties for slow play," the retiring president, Phyllis Foster of Washingtonian C.C., points out, "but not once did we have to impose a penalty during the past year."

And what are the penalties?

- Two strokes for any twosome that does not complete its round and turn in an attested score card within three and a half hours after teeing off. For foursomes, the time limit is four and a half hours.

- Two strokes for any group that falls more than a hole behind the players in front and fails to wave the following group to play through.

- Disqualification of the last players on the course if they finish more than 20 minutes behind the group in front of them.

- Two strokes for any player more than 10 minutes late for a tee time.

The rules are contained in a pocket-size handbook which goes to all of the 540 women golfers from 28 area clubs with handicaps of 22 or less who are members of the association. The handbook also contains the tournament schedule and entry forms, interclub schedule, a membership directory with phone num-

Foster, who declined re-election for a customary second one-year term because she is moving to Sun City, Ariz., says the 57-year-old association "is set up so beautifully and operated so smoothly that it practically runs itself."

The incoming president, Jan Beatty of Columbia, believes the WDGA runs smoothly "because of a lot of hard work by a lot of people on the committees."

There are about 20 committees that run the 31 tournaments and 126 interclub team matches.

Bretton Woods, prizes; Dot Gates of Columbia, teams; Lori Ledbetter of Lakewood, juniors; and Nancy Hollenbeck of Army Navy, rules.

Hollenbeck will conduct two rules seminars early next year open to all WDGA members. They will be held Feb. 18 at Army Navy and March 16 at Columbia.

Virginia clubs dominated the team championships this year, winning five of the six divisions. Army Navy teams won each of the first three divisions, International won the fourth and Westwood the fifth. A Montgomery team, Columbia, won the sixth division.

The following county players won individual tournaments:

- Sally Voss, Congressional, the District championship, and Liza Abood, Kenwood, the Carpenter-Williams Cup, the only tournaments played at scratch, without use of handicaps.

- Carol Mensel, Argyle, the Star Cup and Day Cup.

- Kim Williams, Bethesda, the Keefe Cup.

- Lucy Waletzky, Manor, the WMAL Cup.

- Isabelle Kelly, Kenwood, the Brooke Johns Cup.

- Rosemary Connelly, Bretton Woods, the Beckner Cup.

- Ray Harris, Manor, the Weisburg Cup.

- Arlene English, Congressional, the President's Plate.

- Pat Leader, Congressional, the Pauline Betz Pinehurst Scotch with her sister, Fran Gudely, Springfield, as her partner.

A Piedmont Airlines team won the 16th annual World Airlines Golf Tournament run by Joseph S. Murphy of Chevy Chase, publisher of Airline Executive magazine in Bethesda. Wayne Holland and Joel Gibson shot a 36-hole best-ball score of 66-65 — 131 over the Cathedral Canyon course in Palm Springs, Calif., to give Piedmont its second title over 45 other airline teams from 15 countries. Piedmont also won in 1977.

The 1977 Maryland amateur champion, Jerry McFerren, former Manor member, was on the TWA team which finished second.

Other elected officers for 1982 are Joan Coffman of Washington Golf & C.C., first vice president; Julie Hensing of Springfield, second vice president; Donna Coulther of Tantalum, secretary; and Laura Miller of Bethesda C.C., treasurer.

Mary Lou Amatucci of Argyle has been reappointed tournament chairman. Chairmen for the four classes of tournaments are Charlotte Stevens of Montgomery Village, Class A; Sally Chamberlin of Kenwood, Class B; Liz Wueste of Bethesda, Class C; and Carol Brown of Brooke Manor, Class D.

Others continuing as committee chairmen include Carmen Oelsner of
