With Touch of St. Andrews, Fleming Leads Keefer Cup

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Susan Fleming of Arlington, who played collegiate golf at St. Andrews in Scotland, shot 84-11-73 to take the first-round lead of the 36-hole Women's District Golf Association Keefer Cup yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

Carmen Oelsner of Bretton Woods, who birdied the par-3 No. 10 hole and finished 84-10-74, shared second with Rita Chadwick of Lakewood (83-9-74) and Wendy Stewart of Belle Haven (87-13-74).

Next were Peggy Widicus of Army Navy (87-12-75) and reigning WDGA champion Brenda Baker of Hidden Creek (77-2-75).

Yesterday's winds had little effect on the straight-driving Fleming of Bretton Woods. She birdied the third hole, with a 12-foot putt.

"The wind just doesn't bother me," said Fleming, 31, who came here four years ago from Scotland with husband Alex, who works as an economist for the World Bank. "I used to play on a links-type course [Monifieth, near Carnoustie in Scotland]."

Fleming golfed for the University of St. Andrews, where she earned a degree in economics. She later became an elementary school teacher. Historic St. Andrews was her college's home course and Fleming regularly shot in the 80s there. Her best finish on the WDGA circuit was last year, when she won first flight of the association's championship.

Kim Williams of Bethesda, who will represent the United States in the Curtis Cup matches in August, had gross 78 and was one stroke behind Baker in that division. Williams, winner of four national women's tournaments last year and low amateur in this season's LPGA Dinah Shore tournament, had the lowest handicap in yesterday's field, a plus 2, which means her average round is under par.

BY GARY A. CAMERON—THE WASHINGTON POST

A birdie at No. 3 helped Susan Fleming maintain her first-round lead and win the WDGA's Keefer Cup championship with a 36-hole net score of 142.

Fleming's Steady Play Earns Keefer Cup Title

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Susan Fleming birdied the third hole for the second straight day and finished with 80-11-69 for a 36-hole net of 142 to win the Women's District Golf Association Keefer Cup by six shots yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

Betty Looney, a 13-handicap golfer from Army Navy, finished second with 72-148, followed by Peggy Widicus of Army Navy (12 handicap), 76-151.

Before she teed off yesterday, Fleming witnessed an unfortunate soul seven-putting the sloping 10th green. WDGA President Julie Hemming further demonstrated the danger by five-putting No. 10.

"I knew I had to be careful there," said Fleming, who moved to Arlington from Scotland four years ago and plays out of Bretton Woods. Fleming did three-putt the 10th hole for a bogey, but earlier had birdied the par-5 third hole after hitting a pitching wedge approach three inches from the cup. Her round was steady throughout.

Fleming, 31, started playing golf at age 9 and, after she played for the University of St. Andrews in 1972-76 (with historic St. Andrews as her team's home course), she lowered her handicap to eight strokes.

Fleming, whose previous best showing was winning the WDGA first flight title last year, said of her Keefer victory: "It's great. I really enjoy playing in the District."

Kim Williams of Bethesda Country Club, named to this year's Curtis Cup team, shot 80 and tied for low gross at 158 with present WDGA champion Brenda Baker of Hidden Creek (81).

Washington Times 5/9/86 Scot skips to Keefer

Susan Fleming, a native of Monifieth, Scotland, who is playing her fourth season in the Women's District Golf Association, won her first WDGA cup yesterday in an impressive fashion seldom seen. Not only was her victory achieved in the 54-year-old Keefer Cup at Chevy Chase Club, but she scored 142 net for the 36 holes and won by six resounding shots. Even with stroke allowances, 2-under-par 142 is a rare low score in this old event. Fleming, of Bretton Woods Recreation Center, led by a stroke after an opening 84-11-73 Wednesday, then shot 80 for net 69 yesterday to run away from the pack.

Seymour, Schultz Win

Defending champion Brenda Seymour of Hidden Creek defeated Rita Chadwick of Lakewood, 3 and 2, and qualifying medalist Fran Schultz of Army Navy beat Laura Miller of Bethesda, 7 and 6, in first-round matches of the Women's District Golf Association championships yesterday at Kenwood.

Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village, who lost to Seymour in last year's final, turned back Pam Smyth of Congressional, 3 and 1. The tournament, which runs through Friday, continues today with second-round matches.

Hurst then showed why he was the No. 1 seed, winning four of the next six holes. His par putt at the 16th clinched a 4 and 2 victory.

The other semifinal was a wild affair, Antonucci going 4 up early against Jon Krinn, quickly losing his lead with some ragged play, but getting it back on No. 11 and rolling in a 25-foot birdie putt on No. 16 to take the match, 3 and 2.

WDGA Semis Set

Nancy Hollenbeck of Army Navy Country Club defeated Fran Schultz of Army Navy, 1 up, yesterday to advance to a semifinal match against defending champion Brenda Seymour in the Women's District Golf Association championship at Kenwood Country Club.

Seymour, of Hidden Creek, defeated Arlene English of Congressional, 4 and 3.

In today's other semifinal, Cami Berher of Montgomery Village will face Katherine Marren of Army Navy. Berher defeated Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village, 3 and 1, and Marren defeated Betty Lou Williams of Army Navy, 3 and 2.

Hollenbeck and Schultz were never more than one hole apart. On the 18th, Hollenbeck chipped to within 10 inches of the flag and made a par 5. Schultz failed to reach the green on her fourth shot.

Heintzelman Scores

Webb Heintzelman of Montgomery Village shot 4-under-par 67 to win the Middle Atlantic PGA Chesapeake Classic yesterday at Eisenhower Golf Club near Annapolis.

Heintzelman, the leading money and points winner for the season, increased his lead in both categories. He won $784.

could not use her long hitting ability to advantage at the short Kenwood course. She dropped to four holes down on the eighth hole after Hollenbeck rolled in the last of her three birdies.

Seymour rebounded by winning the ninth hole with a birdie, but lost the 10th, 13th and 14th holes to finish up the match.

"I just mentally had no strength," said Seymour. "It's hard for me when I'm down to come back. I had the hooks going, the slice going, you name it. I beat myself today."

22, who played collegiate golf at North Carolina State, beat Cami Berher of Montgomery Village, 5 and 4, in her semifinal.

"This is the year for us older folks, like Jack Nicklaus, Willie Shoemaker and Ray Floyd," said Hollenbeck, 56, a former Virginia State women's champion.

"I put the pressure on her," Hollenbeck said. "I didn't try to out-drive her or do anything else. I played my game."

Veteran Nancy Hollenbeck birdied three holes on the front nine in defeating defending champion Brenda Seymour, 5 and 4, yesterday in the semifinals of the Women's District Golf Association Championships at Kenwood.

Hollenbeck, of Annandale, will play fellow Army Navy Country Club golfer Katherine Marren of Potomac at 9:40 a.m. today in a scheduled 18-hole final. Marren, Katherine Marren of Potomac shot a steady, 1-over-par game and defeated fellow Army Navy Country Club player Nancy Hollenbeck of Annandale, 3 and 2, for the Women's District Golf Association Championship yesterday at Kenwood.

Hollenbeck, 56, a retired Navy lieutenant commander, was frustrated in the final of this tournament for a second time, but not without a fight.

Hollenbeck, a former Virginia state women's champion, chipped in for winning birdies at the 13th and 14th holes to pull within two holes.

But Marren, who played collegiate golf at North Carolina State, appeared bothered not in the least. She promptly knocked her tee shot onto the green at the par-3 No. 15 and made a 25-foot birdie putt to regain a 3-up advantage.

Marren then hit a drive 240 yards down the 16th fairway, reached the green with her approach shot and closed out Hollenbeck with par.

"The big difference was I hit my driver well today," said Marren, 22, who played erratically in her semifinal on Thursday. "It has given me a hard time all week. I was all over the course. Today I swung through the ball and had an 8-iron or 9-iron to most of the greens."

Marren said she would try to qualify for both the U.S. Women's Open and U.S. Amateur this summer and hopes to finish her studies at Florida Atlantic in Boca Raton, Fla. She said she plans to play in some upcoming Florida women's minitour events as an amateur.

In the championship consolation, Judy Nelson of Army Navy defeated Carmen Oelsner of Bretton Woods in 19 holes.

MAPGA Pro-Am: Glen Barrett of Glenn Dale shot 63 to win at Prince William, the first PGA victory for Barrett, whose score was the lowest in a Middle Atlantic event this year.

Webb Heintzelman of Montgomery Village had 66 for second place. Mike Ahrensbrak of Shenandoah Valley and Lon Kinney of Congressional were next at 68.

Nancy Hollenbeck of Army Navy Country Club defeated Fran Schultz of Army Navy, 1 up, yesterday to advance to a semifinal match against defending champion Brenda Seymour in the Women's District Golf Association championship at Kenwood Country Club.

Seymour, of Hidden Creek, defeated Arlene English of Congressional, 4 and 3.

In today's other semifinal, Cami Berher of Montgomery Village will face Katherine Marren of Army Navy. Berher defeated Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village, 3 and 1, and Marren defeated Betty Lou Williams of Army Navy, 3 and 2.

Hollenbeck and Schultz were never more than one hole apart. On the 18th, Hollenbeck chipped to within 10 inches of the flag and made a par 5. Schultz failed to reach the green on her fourth shot.

Army Navy women dominate tourney

By KELLY ELBIN
Journal staff writer

Maybe the 54th edition of the Women's District Golf Association Championship should be renamed "The Army Navy Open."

Four members of the Arlington, Va., club won their matches yesterday at Kenwood Golf & Country Club in Bethesda and qualified for today's quarterfinals. Therefore, half the remaining golfers chasing after the coveted trophy are from the same club. Seven Army Navy golfers had qualified Monday for the four days of match play.

"I don't know why it is that we do so well," said Fran Schultz, who shot 75 (4-over par) for the lowest round Monday and then trounced Bethesda's Laura Miller, 7 and 6, in yesterday's action. "Maybe it's because we have two golf courses. It may be, because we probably have more lower-handicap women golfers in our club. And we have a large membership who play."

Golfers from Army Navy have won the WDGA Championship 10 times. No. 11 looks within reach, although two of the four matches today will feature Army Navy members. Thus, two will be knocked out of the tournament by fellow members.

Schultz plays clubmate Nancy Hollenbeck, who ousted another Army Navy member, Judy Nelson, 5 and 4. They will be the first group off the first tee at 9:42 a.m. Betty Lou Williams and Katherine Marren will face each other at 10 a.m. to round out the Army Navy contingent.

Williams defeated Carmen

Oelsner of Bretton Woods, 4 and 3, while Marren edged Sheila Dagucon of Montgomery, 3 and 2. Oelsner shot 77 Monday, with Dagucon finishing at 79.

There is, however, some hope for at least three county golfers.

Two of them — Cami Berher and Sharon Briggs — belong to Montgomery Village and will play each other at 9:54. Berher beat Judi Enright of Army Navy, 3 and 2. Briggs had a slightly tougher task, but still topped Pam Smythe of Congressional, 3 and 1.

The other twosome today very well may be the best match of the day. Arlene English of Congressional will play defending champion Brenda Seymour of Hidden Creek.

Seymour, who won last year at International, held off Rita Chadwick of Lakewood, 3 and 2.

English set up the confrontation by whipping Peg Widicus of Army Navy, 4 and 3. After Widicus tied the match on the 10th hole and the two halved 11, English proceeded to win the four holes and close out the match.

"Neither one of us played well on the front side," said English, who has won the past four women's club championships at Congressional. "It was raining for the first nine, and we had to take our rain gear on and off. It was a lot easier on the back, and I played much better."

English didn't play as much last year as she would have liked because she had to move. But she said she believes her swing and game are getting better.

Clubmates turn foes in tourney

By KELLY ELBIN
Journal staff writer

Friends turned to foes yesterday in the quarterfinals of the 54th Women's District Golf Association Championship at Kenwood Golf & Country Club in Bethesda.

Of the four matches played in the championship flight, three featured golfers from the same club. And while two players from Army Navy advanced at the expense of two fellow members, perhaps the biggest news came in the match between clubmates from Montgomery Village.

In that all-county matchup, Cami Berher, 24, a graduate of the University of Maryland, upset last year's runner-up, Sharon Briggs, 3 and 1. Berher, who worked for three years in the pro shop of the now defunct Washingtonian Golf Course in Gaithersburg, led by one hole after nine, then won two holes on the back nine before clinching the victory with a par 5 on 17.

Berher, who also played one semester at the University of Florida, will meet Katherine Marren of Army Navy at 10:24 a.m. today in the semifinals. Marren beat Betty Lou Williams, also of Army Navy, 3 and 2.

That marked the second straight day Marren had won by the same score. Tuesday, she beat Sheila Dagucon of Montgomery Country Club.

As a further coincidence, Marren was once a member of Washingtonian.

The other semifinal pits the defending champion against a veteran of local women's golf who has yet to win the WDGA title.

Brenda Seymour, who won last year at International, proved too strong for her friend, Arlene English of Congressional. Seymour, English's partner the past two years in the Congressional ladies' member-guest, won 4 and 3.

Seymour, a member at Hidden Creek (formerly Reston) will meet Nancy Hollenbeck of Army Navy in today's first semifinal, at 10:18 a.m. Hollenbeck edged Fran Schultz, 1 up.

Schultz, a member of Army Navy and the medalist Monday with a 75, led by one hole with two left. But Schultz lost the 17th with a double bogey and then conceded Hollenbeck a two-foot par putt on the final hole after taking four shots and still being farther from the hole.

Hollenbeck Deposes Seymour in WDGA

Veteran Nancy Hollenbeck birdied three holes on the front nine in defeating defending champion Brenda Seymour, 5 and 4, yesterday in the semifinals of the Women's District Golf Association Championships at Kenwood.

Hollenbeck, of Annandale, will play fellow Army Navy Country Club golfer Katherine Marren of Potomac at 9:40 a.m. today in a scheduled 18-hole final. Marren, 22, who played collegiate golf at North Carolina State, beat Cami Berher of Montgomery Village, 5 and 4, in her semifinal.

"This is the year for us older folks, like Jack Nicklaus, Willie Shoemaker and Ray Floyd," said Hollenbeck, 56, a former Virginia State women's champion.

"I put the pressure on her," Hollenbeck said. "I didn't try to out-drive her or do anything else. I played my game."

Seymour, 26, who lives in Chantilly and plays out of Hidden Creek, could not use her long hitting ability to advantage at the short Kenwood course. She dropped to four holes down on the eighth hole after Hollenbeck rolled in the last of her three birdies.

Seymour rebounded by winning the ninth hole with a birdie, but lost the 10th, 13th and 14th holes to finish up the match.

"I just mentally had no strength," said Seymour. "It's hard for me when I'm down to come back. I had the hooks going, the slice going, you name it. I beat myself today."

The Washington Times

FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1986

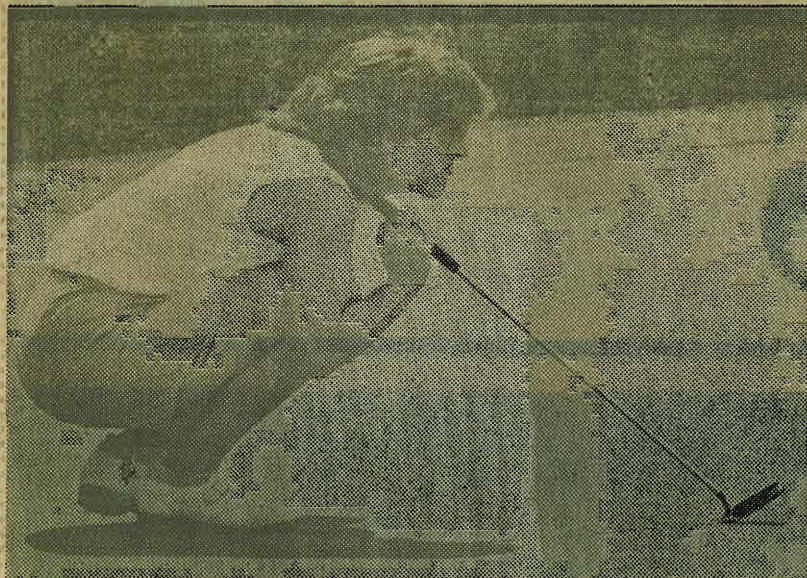

• Nancy Hollenbeck, a retired Navy commander who won the Virginia State women's title 11 years ago, ousted defending champion Brenda Seymour 5 and 4 in the semifinals of the Women's District Golf Association Championship at Kenwood G&CC.

It will be an all-Army Navy CC final at 9:40 a.m. today, after 22-year-old Katherine Marren also won by 5 and 4, over Cami Berher of Montgomery Village in the other semifinal.

Hollenbeck was only one over par for her 14 holes. Marren, who will be a senior this fall at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, went in front to stay by winning the third and fourth.

Katherine Marren of Potomac shot a steady, 1-over-par game and defeated fellow Army Navy Country Club player Nancy Hollenbeck of Annapolis, 3 and 2, for the Women's District Golf Association Championship yesterday at Kenwood.

Hollenbeck, 56, a retired Navy lieutenant commander, was frustrated in the final of this tournament for a second time, but not without a fight.

Hollenbeck, a former Virginia state women's champion, chipped in for winning birdies at the 13th and 14th holes to pull within two holes.

But Marren, who played collegiate golf at North Carolina State, appeared bothered not in the least. She promptly knocked her tee shot onto the green at the par-3 No. 15 and made a 25-foot birdie putt to regain a 3-up advantage.

Marren then hit a drive 240 yards down the 16th fairway, reached the green with her approach shot and closed out Hollenbeck with par.

"The big difference was I hit my driver well today," said Marren, 22, who played erratically in her semi-final on Thursday. "It has given me a hard time all week. I was all over the course. Today I swung through the ball and had an 8-iron or 9-iron to most of the greens."

Marren said she would try to qualify for both the U.S. Women's Open and U.S. Amateur this summer and hopes to finish her studies at Florida Atlantic in Boca Raton, Fla. She said she plans to play in some upcoming Florida women's minitour events as an amateur.

In the championship consolation, Judy Nelson of Army Navy defeated Carmen Oelsner of Bretton Woods in 19 holes.

Kim Cayce, daughter of Kent Cayce, head pro at Congressional Country Club, won her second successive District junior girls championship at Argyle yesterday with 78-74—152 for 36 holes.

The 15-year-old county junior high school champion will receive $300 from the Women's District Golf Association toward expenses to compete in the USGA Girls' Junior championship at Peach Tree C.C. in Marysville, Calif., Aug. 4-9.

Congressional's Amy Hooks was second with 184, followed by Beth Plecker, daughter of Manor's head pro Coleman Plecker, 190, and Teresa Saponaro of Congressional, 192.

In the nine-hole group, Melissa Smith of Congressional won with an 18-hole score of 111. Fiona Rees of Bretton Woods shot 188. Three young girls from Hidden Creek also competed: Tiffany O'Sullivan, Kari Allen and Sheila Shadmand.

Williams Eliminated

Penny O'Linger of Ocean City upset medalist Kim Williams on the 20th hole of their first-round match in the Maryland Women's Amateur yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

O'Linger surprises Williams in women's amateur

By John W. Stewart
Sun Staff Correspondent

CHEVY CHASE — Penny O'Linger, the last qualifier in the championship flight, shocked medalist Kim Williams with a winning 30-foot putt on the second extra hole to highlight first-round play in the women's amateur championship of the Maryland State Golf Association yesterday.

Although Williams led a 57-player field with a 1-under-par 70 on the 5,735-yard Chevy Chase Club course Tuesday, and O'Linger was one of two to get in with 81s, such are the vagaries of match play that no more than one hole separated the two after the fifth green.

O'Linger, from Ocean City Yacht & Country Club, birdied the 16th hole with a three-foot putt to get even at that point, and they halved the next three holes with bogeys, each missing a short putt that would have ended it, before the climactic 369-yard second hole.

Williams, from Bethesda C.C., drove into trees on the right, put her second shot in a bunker, came out strongly and putt to within three feet. O'Linger, who does not have Williams' strength or length, was short of the green in two, chipped weakly to 30 feet, and calmly holed the putt.

The winner had fallen two-down after three holes, but squared it with birdies at the fifth and sixth (a 60-yard chip-in), and it was back and forth the rest of the way. Both players shot 3-over-par 74s, with O'Linger getting four birdies, and Williams, still plagued by putting problems, two. Williams had beaten O'Linger in the semifinals en route to her only state title two years ago.

O'Linger, an Eastern Shore native, has enjoyed most of her success in Shore events. She won the prestigious Pepsi tournament two years ago, and the Peninsula title five times.

Those at the site weren't the only ones surprised by the outcome. When O'Linger called her husband Randy, the former head pro at Ocean City and now general manager of Philadelphia Golf Inc., which leases that city's public courses, his first response was, "You're kidding."

Lois Ledbetter of Lakewood Country Club had the best round, going 2-under-par in beating Carole Harris of Kenwood, 6 and 4. Ledbetter, 22, and a fifth-year senior at the University of Alabama, was four-up at the turn.

Sarah LeBrun, 20, and a Duke University junior, was one of three Baltimoreans to win. She was 1-under-par in posting a 5-and-4 decision over Kathy Quelland. Tina Barrett, also 20, and a Longwood College junior, was five-up after nine holes, and 3-over-par for 13 holes in stopping Kathy Malpass, 6 and 5. Sally Ratcliffe, 22, and a January graduate of Penn State, went ahead of Carol Davies at the 16th hole and made it stand up for a one-up victory.

Three county golfers fall from women's tourney

By JOE GAMBATESE
Special to The Journal

Three Montgomery County golfers were eliminated from the Maryland State women's amateur championship at Chevy Chase Club yesterday, turning today's final match into a contest between two college juniors from Baltimore.

Lois Ledbetter of Lakewood Country Club in Rockville, a fifth-year senior at Alabama, was upset on the second extra hole of a sudden-death playoff by Tina Barrett of Longwood College in Farmville, Va., who is a member of Sparrow's Point Golf Club in Baltimore. This was the same hole where the tournament medalist, Kim Williams of Bethesda, was upset by Penny O'Linger of Ocean City on Wednesday, and where both Ledbetter and Williams lost their matches with bogeys after bunkering their second shots on the 369-yard hole.

Ledbetter, who plays No. 1 for Alabama and was runner-up recently in the Western Women's Amateur, lost despite playing probably the best golf of the tournament. She was 4 under par for the 65 holes she played.

She qualified with even-par 71, was 2 under par in beating Carole Harris of Kenwood, 6 and 4, Wednesday; also 2 under in beating Arlene English of Congressional, 6 and 5, yesterday morning, and even par in the 20 holes she played against Barrett.

Ledbetter birdied the 11th and 12th holes to take a 2-up lead after she and Barrett made the turn all even. Barrett got one of the holes back immediately with a birdie 2 on the short 13th. After both parred the next three holes, Barrett, 20, holed a 13-foot birdie putt on 17 and Ledbetter matched it with a 10-footer.

The young Baltimorean squared the match on the 18th with a par after a poor drive cost Ledbetter a bogey. She kept the match alive on the first extra hole by getting up and down out of a greenside bunker. Pumped up, she laced a 225-yard drive down the middle of the second fairway, far ahead of Ledbetter's tee shot, and hit a 6-iron to the center of the green for an easy par and victory.

Today at 10 a.m. Barrett will play Sarah and 4, and Rebecca Doman, Argyle, d. Cindy Peterka, Sparrows Point, 3 and 2.

Third: Jean Opeka, Prince Georges, d. Judy Hoff, Elkridge, 3 and 2, and Carmen Oelsner, Bretton Woods, d. Mary Ann Strader, Swan Creek.

Fourth: Carolyn Lyman, Beaver Creek, d. Cami Berher, Mont. Village 1 up, and Elizabeth Johnson, Chevy Chase, d. Marty King, Crofton 1 up.

Fifth: Carol Corrigan, Chevy Chase, d. Eve Dempsher, Lakewood, 3 and 2, and Lindy Crismer, Rolling Road, d. Martha Crosland, Chevy Chase, 1 up.

Sixth: Charlotte Decker, Kenwood, d. Jan Beatty, Columbia, 5 and 4, and Eleanor Appling, Towson, d. Jean Gould, Bethesda, 1 up, 19 holes.

LeBrun, a junior at Duke and a member of Green Spring Valley, 18 holes for the championship. LeBrun, 20, runner-up last year, was beaten by Barrett, 2 and 1, in the Baltimore Metro championship last month.

In other quarterfinal matches, besides Ledbetter's victory over English, Wendy Kern of Easton, Md., defeated O'Linger, 2 and 1; LeBrun beat Sheila Daguon of Montgomery C. C., 5 and 4, and Barrett defeated Sally Ratcliffe of Baltimore, 2 and 1.

Flight results:

First: Williams d. Kathy Quelland, Ocean City, 1 up, and Carol Davies, Argyle, d. Harris, 2 up.

Second: Rita Chadwick, Lakewood, d. Karen Smith, University of Maryland G. C., 5

LeBrun Beats Barrett, Wins Md. Amateur

By Ben Gieser

Special to The Washington Post

Sarah LeBrun began par-birdie-eagle, ended 5 under par for 14 holes and defeated fellow Baltimorean Tina Barrett, 5 and 4, to win the Maryland Women's Amateur yesterday at Chevy Chase Club.

LeBrun, 20, a Duke University junior, lost to Barrett in June in the Baltimore Metropolitan tournament. "It was a motivation, just to prove to myself . . ." said LeBrun, who plays out of Green Spring Club. "I wanted to win this one."

LeBrun's four matches this week all were won by a 5 and 4 margin. The only time she played beyond the 14th hole was in Tuesday's 18-hole qualifying, when she shot 74. After LeBrun made a 10-foot putt for eagle 3 on the third hole, Barrett found herself at even par but three holes down.

LeBrun continued the onslaught by birdieing the sixth hole, and almost eagled the 11th to go 4 up.

"She was too hot today," said Barrett, 20, who plays for Longwood College in Farmville, Va., where she won this year's NCAA small-college championship. "I played good all week [Barrett eliminated Western Amateur runner-up Lois Ledbetter in Thursday's semifinals]. Sarah played much better than me."

Curtis Cup player Kim Williams of Potomac, a first-round upset victim, opened with three straight birdies and defeated Carol Davies of Argyle, 6 and 5, to win the first flight.

PINEHURST, N.C., May 28—Cindy Scholefield of Malibu, Calif., upset Curtis Cup team member Kim Williams of Potomac, Md., today on the 20th hole in the third round of the 84th annual North and South Amateur golf tournament.

Williams was 4 under par after 17 holes, but was only 1 up in the match. Both players missed the 18th green in regulation, but Scholefield saved par while Williams took a bogey. That sent the match into extra holes.

On the 20th hole, Williams was faced with a 35-foot chip shot, ran the ball 10 feet past the hole and was unable to save par. Scholefield made par.

MISC. NEWS ABOUT WDGA MEMBERS

N A T I O N W I D E

Lorraine Elder is taking a graduate course at Florida State and will not defend the Lillian Payne Cup she won at Congressional last year. Seventy-two players with handicaps of 14 or less will compete for the cup next Monday and Tuesday.

The 36-hole scratch invitational event honors the memory of a Congressional member who was president of the Women's District Golf Association from 1936 to 1938. It was won five consecutive years, 1953 to 1957, by Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, a former member of the U.S. Curtis Cup team.

Congressional took over the prestigious tournament in 1969 after it had been run for 20 years by the Maryland State Golf Association.

Lois Ledbetter of Rockville and Lakewood lost to Leslie Shannon of Miami in the recent final of the highly regarded Women's Western Amateur near Chicago. Ledbetter, a senior-to-be at the University of Alabama, where she plays No. 1 on the women's team, is entered in the Maryland State Women's Amateur, July 15-18, at Chevy Chase Club.

"I just went back to basics and found my swing," said Ledbetter, 22. "I was hitting my irons particularly straight and close to the pins, and was putting superbly. I got myself a new putter [a silver Ping B-60] and loved it."

Shannon had beaten Kim Williams of Potomac and Bethesda Country Club in the semifinals of the Western. Williams, by virtue of being named to the U.S. Curtis Cup team, is exempt from qualifying for the U.S. Women's Open, July 10-13, in Dayton, Ohio. Williams is also entered in the Maryland Women's.

Women's District champion Katherine Marren, Western Women's runner-up Lois Ledbetter, Brenda Seymour, Arlene English, Penny O'Linger and Jane Mason are entered in the 36-hole Lillian Payne Invitational at Congressional Aug. 4-5. Kim Williams of Potomac is not entered, as she will be playing for the United States team in Curtis Cup matches Aug. 1-2 in Hutchinson, Kan.

Lois Ledbetter makes the cut

"I'm going to make the cut this time."

That was the promise Lois Ledbetter of Rockville made to herself yesterday after she qualified for the third time for the U.S. Women's Amateur championship, which will be played the week of Aug. 11 at the Pasatiempo Golf Club course in Santa Cruz, Calif.

"Both times in the past I failed to make the cut (qualify for match play)," said the No. 1 player for Alabama after she shot 75 from the men's white tees at Columbia Country Club to become one of six who qualified to make the trip to California. She was the only one from the Washington area.

Ledbetter got off to a slow start with a double-bogey 6 on the second hole and bogies on the fourth and fifth to put her 4 over par after five holes.

"Then I got mad," she said later. She ripped off four straight birdies to make the turn with an even-par 37. She needed only a tap-in on No. 6 and putts of 15, 20 and 5 feet on the next three holes.

The tall fifth-year Alabama senior got to 1-under with another tap-in birdie on No. 11, but three putts for a bogey on the short 13th brought her back to even par. From there she parred in.

Tina Barrett of Baltimore, recent runner-up in the Maryland women's amateur at Chevy Chase Club, was medalist with 34-38-72. Kathy Quelland of Berlin, Md., the last to finish in the field of 18 players, was next with 74. Other qualifiers were Sarah LeBrun and Bonnie Fry of Baltimore, with 75, and Lori Van Sickle of Wilmington, Del., who shot 77 and won a playoff on the first hole from Jennifer Creps of Virginia Beach.

The only other Washington area participants — Kathy Marren, newly crowned Women's District champion, and Liz Fry of the University of Maryland Golf Course — would have qualified except for poor starts.

Both shot 79, Marren after a front nine of 43 that included a triple bogey and Fry after a 42 that included a double-bogey. Marren came back with a 36, 2-under par, and Fry, a Kentucky sophomore, with a 37. Marren lost a playoff for the third alternate spot. Fry did not stay for the playoff.

The field included Nancy Porter of Merion Golf Club, near Philadelphia, daughter of former U.S. amateur champion Dorothy Germain Porter. She shot 80.

Friends of Les Barker, a Columbia member and top-rated rules official, were delighted to see him officiating again only 10 days after his right leg was amputated below the knee. He was chauffeured around the Columbia course in a golf cart by 11-time District amateur champion Bobby Brownell.

The qualifying was conducted again in the usual first-rate manner by Mary Kauffman, manager of Bill Strausbaugh's pro shop. This was one day when the tables were turned and Strausbaugh worked for Kauffman handling first-tee duties. Columbia member Jan Beatty also assisted as a rules official and Ann Bergquist of Kenwood with the scoring.

Potomac's Williams tests her game against the pros

Kim Williams of Potomac, who has been selected for the U.S. Curtis Cup team, will compete by invitation in next week's $430,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore tournament, the richest in the history of the Ladies PGA Tour, in Rancho Mirage, Calif.

The Florida International University senior, who is ineligible for collegiate competition because of her transfer from Mississippi State, intends to turn pro in the fall and already is testing her game against the pros.

JOE GAMBATESE

Golf

She played in the Futures Golf Tour's Ravine Classic in Florida two weeks ago and tied for 17th with 78-81-74—233. As a pro she would have won $230. (Jennifer MacCurach, a graduate of Seneca Valley, was tied for fourth with 225, winning $750.)

This week Williams is competing in a Women's Florida Golf Tour event in Kissimmee.

"She's having a problem with being too erratic," said her father, Doug.

He added that her last tournament as an amateur will be the USGA Women's Amateur, in which she was runner-up two years ago. It will be played Aug. 11-13 at Pasaletto Golf Club in Santa Cruz, Calif.

She then will try to qualify for the LPGA Tour in September and forgo an opportunity to represent the United States in the Women's World Amateur Team matches in Caracas, Venezuela, in October. Some 30 countries will participate.

The 24th Curtis Cup matches against the British will be held Aug. 1-2 at Prairie Dunes in Hutchinson, Kan.

The second Curtis Cup matches — the first in the United States — were held at Chevy Chase Club in Chevy Chase in 1934, two years after the inaugural event in Wentworth, England. The U.S. won, 6½-2½, led by Virginia Van Wie, who had won the last two women's championships and won her third in a row the following week at Whitemarsh Valley in Philadelphia.

Of further interest with respect to Chevy Chase and the Curtis Cup is that Harriot Curtis, donor with her sister Margaret of the Curtis Cup, was medalist in the 1908 U.S. women's championship played at Chevy Chase. She shot 85, a record. Harriot had won the title in 1906, then was dethroned the following year by Margaret in an all-sisters final after Margaret won medalist honors with a 95. Margaret Curtis also won consecutive championships in 1911 and 1912.

Williams, a member of Bethesda

C.C. and the No. 1 ranked women's amateur in the Washington area, will defend two championships she won last year before she turns pro. They are the Southern Amateur, scheduled May 19-23 in Jackson, Miss., and the Eastern Amateur June 10-11 in King of Prussia, Pa. The Canadian Ladies' Amateur, which she has won twice, will be played Aug. 19-23 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, but Williams does not expect to compete.

Kim Williams is only second Marylander to make Curtis Cup team

For the last 30 years, Mary Ann Cooke of Baltimore has been the only Maryland resident to play on a Curtis Cup squad. She now has company.

Kim Williams of Bethesda was among the eight members named for the 1986 team last week, as was Kandi Kessler, another Middle Atlantic area competitor, from Charlottesville, Va. The selections were announced at the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association. The 24th Curtis Cup, a biennial competition between female amateur golfers representing the United States and a team from Great Britain-Ireland, will be played Aug. 1-2 at Prairie Dunes Country Club in Hutchinson, Kan.

Judy Bell of Colorado Springs, Colo., a former Curtis Cup player, has been named non-playing captain of the United States team.

Last year, Williams won four championships, the Doherty, Southern, Eastern (at Prince George's Country Club in Mitchellville) and successfully defended her Canadian Amateur title.

Her biggest thrill?

"I really enjoyed winning the Easterns," Williams said the other night by telephone from Miami, where she is enrolled at Florida International University. "It was held at home, I happen to like the course, and there was a good field." In taking the title, Williams was a wire-to-wire leader.

In defending in Canada, she was tied for the lead going to the final day, then finally moved in front for good with a birdie at the 15th hole, as the leader at the time fell back with a bogey.

Williams, 22, a former Maryland State and District Amateur champion, attended Mississippi State University for three years, then transferred to Florida International last fall. At the time, the understanding was she had been released by Mississippi State, so she would be eligible to play on FIU's women's golf team immediately. However, that did not turn out to be the case, so she has had to forgo her final year of college golf and is talking about withdrawing from school this week.

In 1986 tournaments, she has gone to the quarterfinals of the match-play Doherty, and finished among the top 10 in the stroke-play South Atlantic and Harder Hall events. Ahead is a full amateur circuit, pointing toward the Curtis Cup and the United States Women's Amateur two weeks later.

"After that, I'm planning on going to the [Ladies Professional Golf Association tour] fall qualifying school."

One stop on her schedule will be the women's amateur championship of the Maryland State Golf Association. A quarterfinal loss to Bonnie Fry last June at Eagle's Nest still rankles her, and she wants revenge.

She asked where it would be held, and when told the Chevy Chase Club, there was elation in her voice. "Really! That's great," she said. "It's close to home, and it's my favorite course. I'm going to win it."

Not playing college golf has enabled Williams to devote time to working on her game, with help from her new teacher, professional Harvie Ward. And she has high hopes for the coming year.

Kessler, a senior at the University of North Carolina, is a former Middle Atlantic Women's Amateur titleholder, and her 1985 log included going to the quarterfinals of the U.S. Women's amateur [lost to eventual champion Michiko Hattori], as well as the Southern, Western and Trans-National.

Completing the team are Cindy Schreyer, 1984 National Collegiate Athletic Association champion, of Peachtree City, Ga., and Danielle Ammaccapane, 1985 NCAA winner and U.S. Women's Public Links champion from Phoenix, Ariz., plus Kim Gardner, Larchmont, N.Y.; Kathleen McCarthy, Fresno, Calif.; Dottie Pepper, Gansevoort, N.Y., and Leslie Shannon, Milford, Conn.

The alternates are Cindy Scholefield, Malibu, Calif.; Lancy Smith, Snyder, N.Y., and Carol Semple Thompson, Pittsburgh. □
