IN MEMORIAM

Karen F. Elder

Army–Navy Country Club

Good Friend and Steadfast Supporter of the WDGA

KAREN F. ELDER

Golfer, Former Navy Officer

Karen F. Elder, 52, a former Navy officer who was a golfer and stamp collector, died of leukemia March 20 at Bethesda Naval Hospital. She had maintained a home in Annandale since 1965 and had lived there permanently for a decade.

A native of Salt Lake City and a history graduate of the University of Utah, Mrs. Elder joined the Navy as an ensign in 1960. She resigned the next year after serving as an administrator in the Naval Schools Command in Newport, R.I.

The wife of a Navy officer, she accompanied her husband on assignments to England, Hawaii, Japan and Newport in addition to Washington.

Mrs. Elder was a member of the Army-Navy Country Club golf team that won the Virginia state team golf matches in 1982 and was historian of the Women's District Golf Association. A stamp collector, she also worked as a volunteer in the philatelic department of the Smithsonian Institution.

Survivors include her husband, retired Capt. Ralph C. Elder of Annandale; two sons, David Elder of Orlando, Fla., and Daniel Elder of Annandale; a daughter, Lorraine Elder of Tallahassee, Fla.; and a sister, Marilyn Koenemann of Rogers City, Mich.

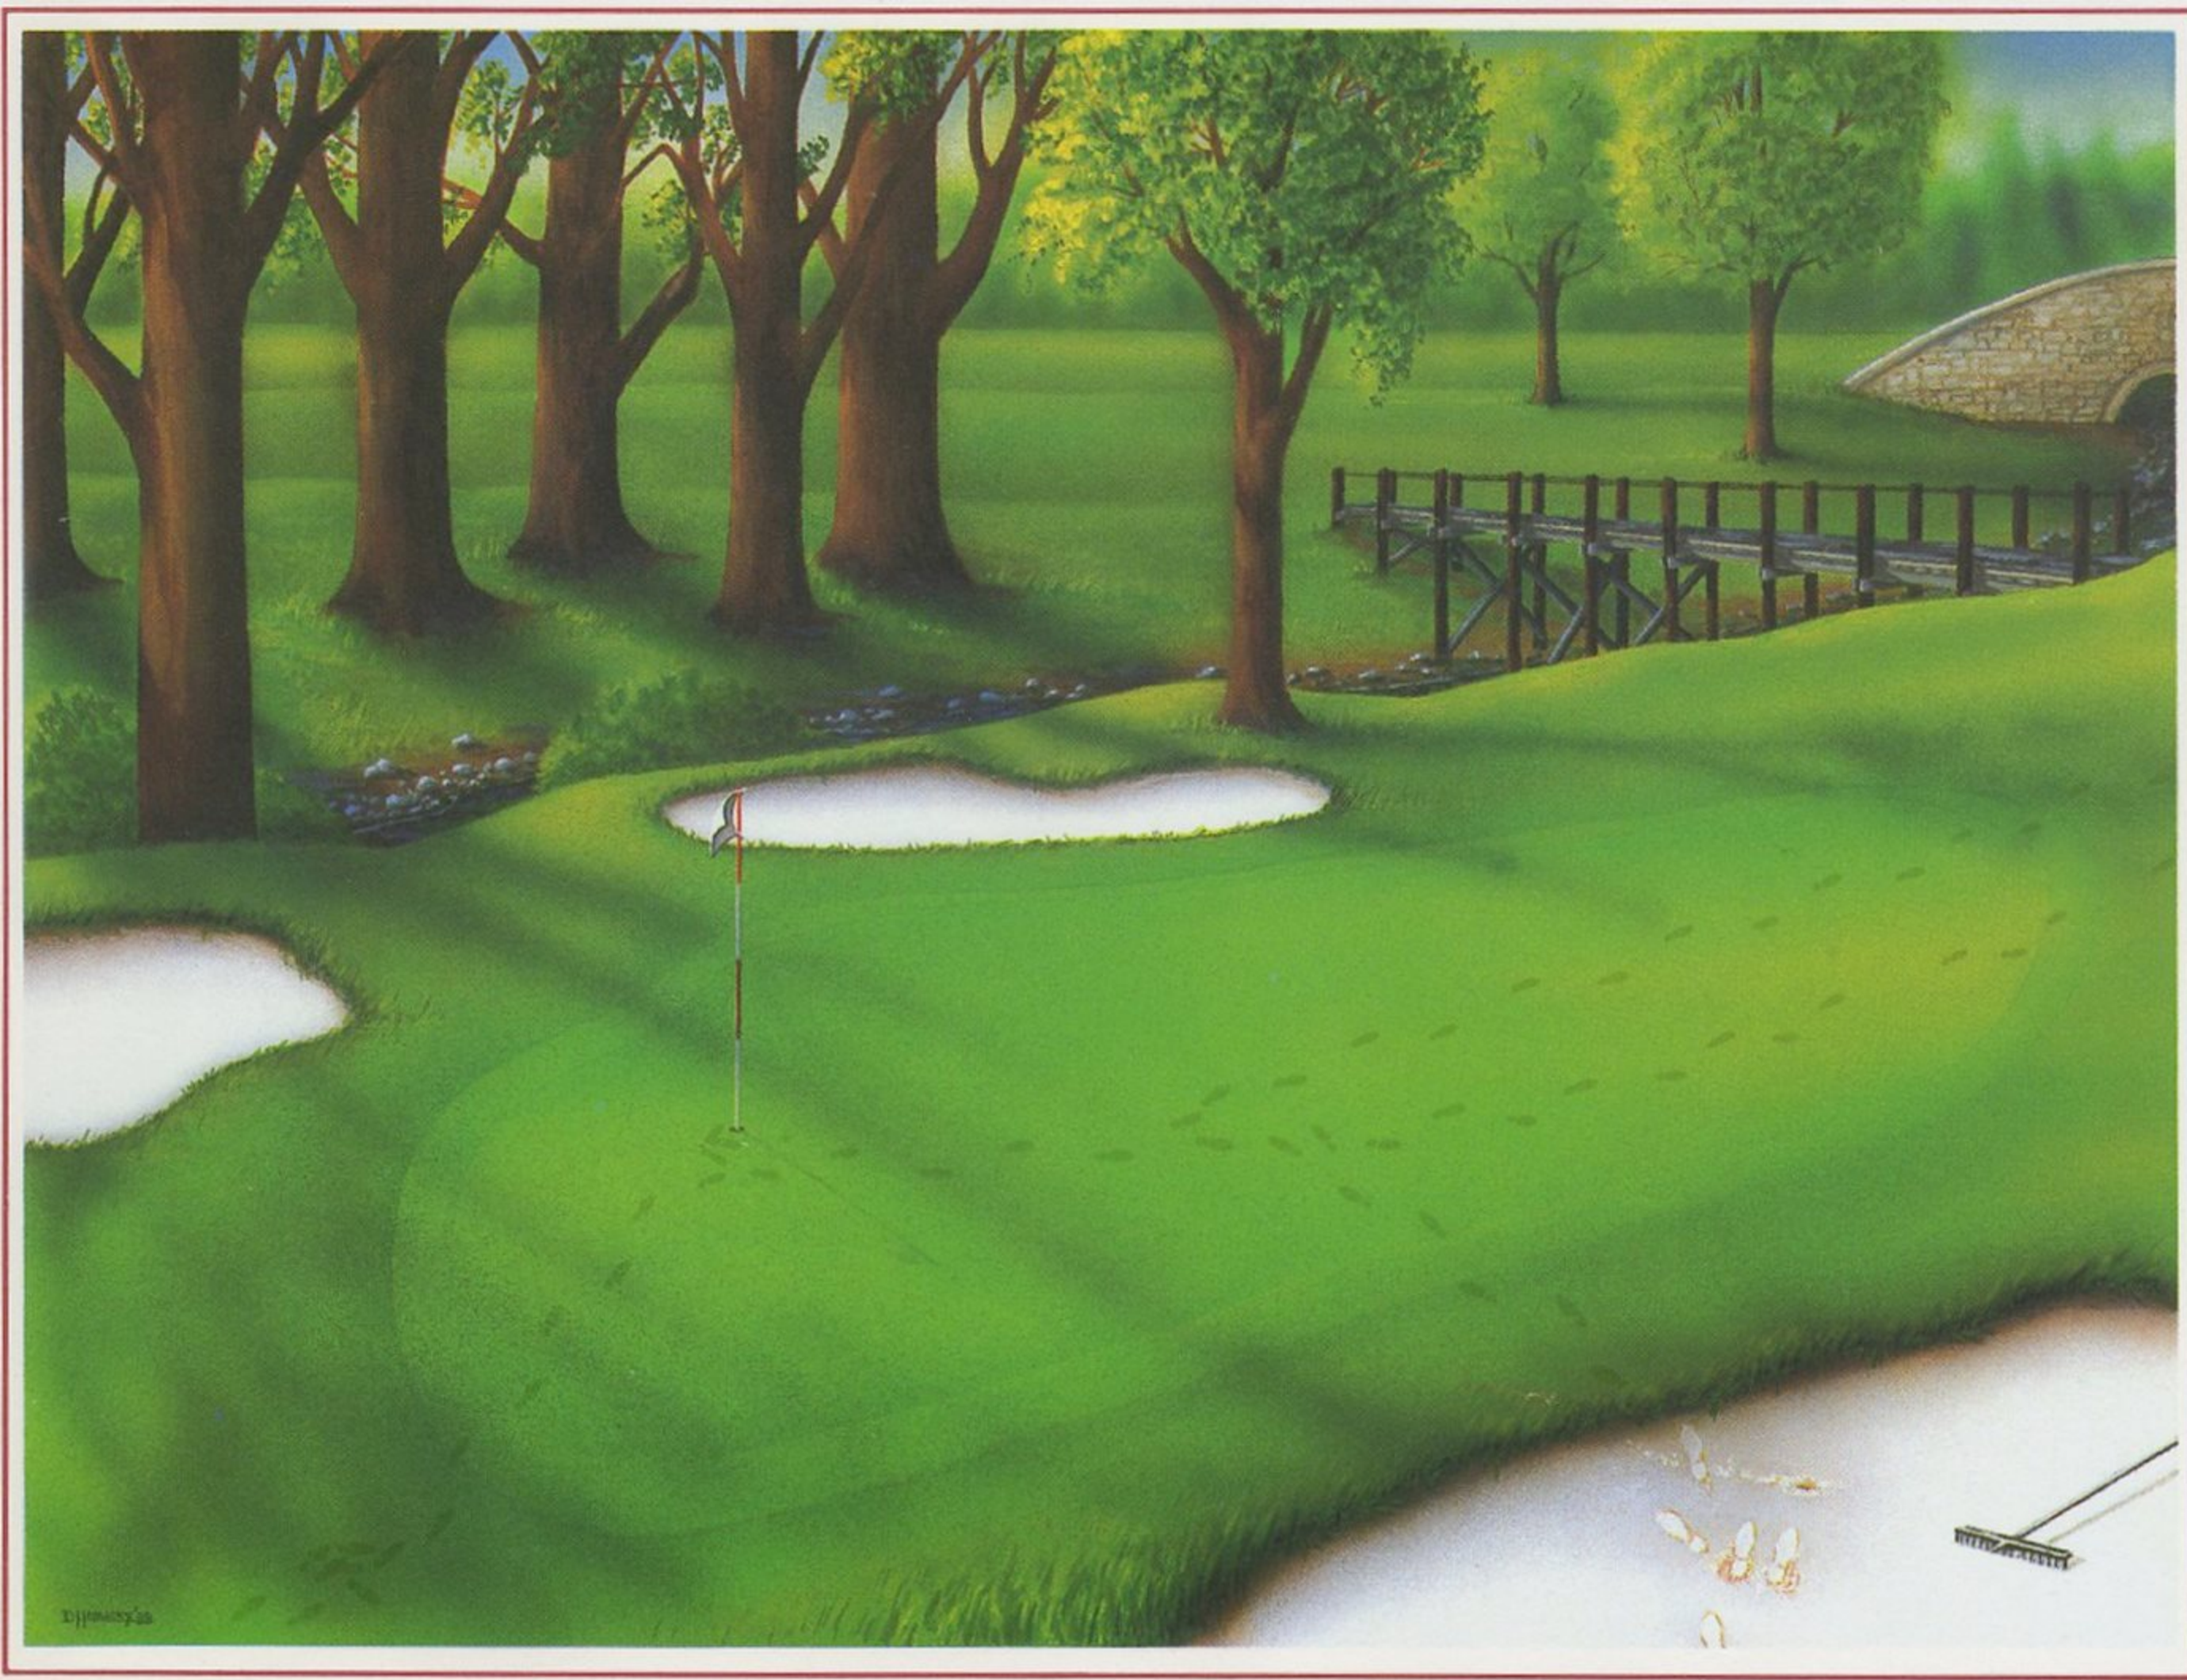

ELDER, KAREN F.

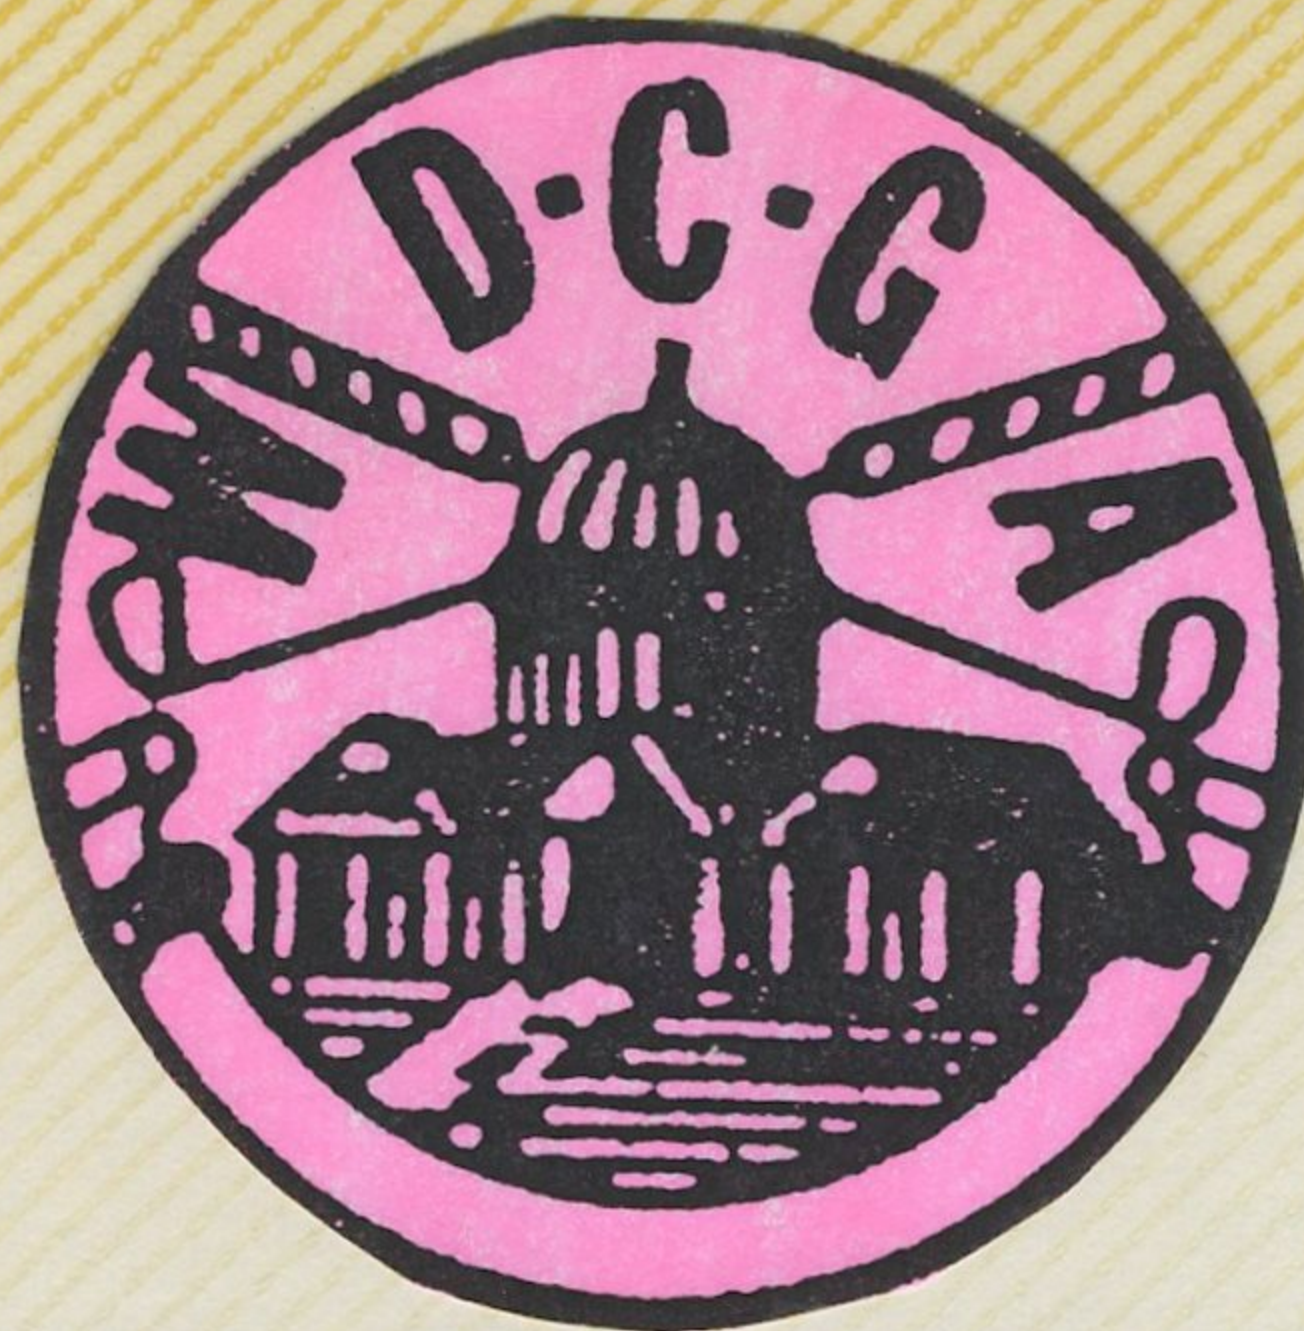

On Wednesday, March 20, 1991, at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, MD, KAREN F. ELDER, of Annandale, VA, wife of Capt. Ralph C. Elder, USN (Ret.); mother of David B., Lorraine and Daniel C. Elder; sister of Marilyn Koenemann.

A memorial service will be held on Monday, March 25, 10 a.m., at Ft. Myer Chapel. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that memorials be made to the American Cancer Society or the Visiting Nurses' Association of Northern Virginia. Interment Arlington National Cemetery with military honors.

Fairley Captures Keefer Cup

Newcomer Beats Wind, Rough Start in 5-Stroke Win

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Someone forgot to tell newcomer Paula Fairley of Great Falls how hard it is to win the Women's District Golf Association Keefer Cup—especially at difficult Chevy Chase Club, playing in gusty winds, on slick greens and on her first try. Fairley, a new member at River Bend, recovered from first-hole misfortune and finished with a net 71 for a two-day total of 140 and a five-shot victory over Dory Beltson of Army Navy, who finished at 74—145. Both play to 12 handicaps.

Pressie Hoffman of the host club was third at 73—147, followed at 149 by Trish Gates of Columbia (74 yesterday), Betty Davis of Bethesda (75) and Ruth Ann Verell of Belle Haven (77). "She's a charming lady, hits a beautiful ball and putts really well," said runner-up Beltson, who pulled even on the first hole when Fairley three-putted for a double-bogey.

But soon thereafter, Fairley put the rest of the field in her rear-view mirror by sinking long putts for natural birdies at the seventh and ninth holes and was generally steady the rest of the way.

"I was very nervous," said Fairley, 44, whose family of three moved here last June from Stamford, Conn. "It's the first time that I've led a tournament after the first round and had to keep it together. The wind made it hard to concentrate. It blows you all around."

Leland Ingham of Columbia Country Club won the gross division with her second straight 76 for a total of 152.

In individual competition, the annual Keefer Cup Tournament brought, as usual, the strongest District players to the Chevy Chase Club on the first two beautiful days of May. Newcomer Paula Fairley of River Bend, a 12-handicapper playing in her first major District tournament, netted an astounding 140 for 36 holes to lead the field of 72 by five strokes. Dory Belton of Army-Navy, also carrying a 12 handicap, came in second with 145. Third net went to Pressie Hoffman of the host club, (165-18) 147 Trish Gates of Columbia, Ruth Ann Verell of Belle Haven, and Betty Davis of Bethesda were awarded fourth, fifth, and sixth net, respectively, by a match of cards at 149 each. Other winners in net included Ellen McGowan of Springfield, Susan Strittmatter of Mount Vernon, and Teddi Kurcaba of International, 150 net each; Sandy Schiavone of Hidden Creek and Dottie Bennett of International, 152 net each; and Malsun Lee of Indian Spring, 153 net.

The Keefer Cup gross division offered a run-away victory to Columbia's Leland Ingham, the only player with a plus handicap (+1) and the only one with immediate plans to turn pro.

Ingham handily shot (76-76) 152 to lead the tournament by five strokes in gross before heading home to pack for the up-coming Futures Tour, starting in Chattanooga, Tenn., and to celebrate her 25th birthday on May 3.

Second gross for the second year in a row went to Sheila Dagucon of Montgomery, who shot 158 to tie current District champion Shawn McCullough of Mt. Vernon. Carol Davies of Argyle took third gross with 159.

Women Tee Off on A Busy Season

BY FRAN ACKERMAN

THE WOMEN'S DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA GOLF ASSOCIATION kicked off the 1991 season with its traditional series of team matches—events that test the skills of the best golfers in each WDGA-participating clubhouse. This year, undefeated Columbia won the Division I championship, knocking off Army-Navy, Argyle, defending-champion Montgomery Village, Mount Vernon, Chevy Chase and Westwood and accumulating 196 1/2 points in the process. First net went to Montgomery Village with 172 points. Argyle, which initially came on like gangbusters, had to content itself with both second gross (185 points) and second net (169 1/2).

Members of the victorious Columbia team include captain Leland Ingham, who headed to Tennessee for the Futures Tour the day after the May 9 team-match finals; Linda Collins, who did double duty as both team member and first division captain; the mother-daughter combo of Dot and Trish Gates; Jean Kennedy; Lenore Martinez; and substitute Beth Carpenter.

Bethesda took Division II with 184 points to runner-up Army-Navy's 173. Montgomery prevailed in Division IV with 175 1/2 points. Brooke Manor placed second with 168. Bretton Woods swept past International on the last day of play to win Division VI with 179 1/2 to International's 170 1/2, and undefeated Kenwood beat second-place Fairfax by 9 points in Division VII, 181 to 172.

Divisions III and V will be decided when rain-dates are played.

RULES AND INFORMATION FOR WDGA TEAM MATCHES

I. RULES OF PLAY

- A. U.S.G.A. Rules of Golf apply (particular Rule 30-3).
- B. Method of Play: 18 holes using the Four-Ball Match format.
- C. Tardiness: When a player is late the match will proceed after a five minute delay. The late player may join the bracket at any subsequent tee.
- D. Maximum of 14 Clubs: For violation of Rule 30-3.b., the penalty of loss of a point if discovered during the first hole or loss of 2 points if discovered anytime subsequently shall be subtracted from the violator's score at the end of the match. The opponent's score is not affected.
- E. Undue Delay:
 - 1. Procedure:
 - a. HOST TEAM SHALL PATROL OWN COURSE.
 - b. If a delay occurs Host Team Member shall investigate.
 - c. Where undue delay appears, the offender shall be observed for one or two holes to ensure that the situation is not caused by bad play or loss of ball(s).
 - d. If violation is apparent, the Host Team Member should confer with the Host Team Captain. If the Captain agrees, the penalty shall be assessed as soon as possible on the course.
 - 2. Penalty:
 - a. A player who is causing the undue delay shall be disqualified from that hole; her partner shall not be penalized.
 - b. If undue delay occurs between holes, the player shall be disqualified from the next hole. Her partner shall not be penalized.
 - c. If a player persists in undue delay, on the second offense the side shall be disqualified from the match, losing any points won in the bracket involved. The opponents shall receive the points from the remaining holes.
- F. Ineligible Player: For using the ineligible player, a team shall lose any points won in the bracket involved. Points won by opponent stand as earned.
- G. Default:
 - 1. If a team should default by non-appearance at a scheduled team match, the team shall be barred from further team play in the current season. ALL points won or lost by the team will be withdrawn.

2. If a team should default by non-appearance at the final match the penalty is as follows:

"A team must field a full team at the last match or the team members absent would be ineligible the following year". Please note: This rule holds true even when the last match is a make-up/rain-date.

- H. Failure to Field Full Team: Unless special dispensation be granted by the District Team Chairman and the Second Vice President, a team fielding fewer than six players more than once will forfeit all points won in that season. All regular members will be ineligible for team play the following year. Please note: A team must field a full team at the last match even when the last match is a make-up/rain-date.

II. COMPOSITION OF TEAMS:

- A. Number of Teams Permitted: Every club may field at least one team. No club shall be permitted to field a fourth team before another club has had the opportunity to field its second and/or third team. Each team shall consist of six regular members, with two substitutes for the first team and one substitute for each succeeding team.
- B. Submitting Three or More Teams: For clubs submitting three or more teams, those teams will be put into pools (i.e., a pool consisting of 3rd submitted teams, a pool consisting of 4th submitted teams, etc.) and a blind draw will be conducted to select a team to fill out a division. Should a blind draw become necessary the following year, the teams that participated the previous year would be eliminated from consideration in the blind draw, unless one or more of these teams would be needed, in which event there would be a blind draw also.
- C. Ascending Handicap Indexes: A club which submits more than one team must place its regular members in teams according to ascending handicap indexes.

III. PROCEDURE OF PLAY:

- A. Scoring:
1. Division I: 18 point system - 1 point for each hole won, $\frac{1}{2}$ point for each hole halved, and 0 points for each hole lost - GROSS and NET.
 2. Division II-VII: 18 point system - 1 point for each hole won, $\frac{1}{2}$ point for each hole halved, and 0 points for each hole lost - NET only.
 3. All Net matches will be played with full course handicap with strokes off the low handicap index in the foursome.

B. Line-up of Players:

1. The lowest handicap index player (regular or substitute) on each team shall play in the first bracket. All other players may play in any bracket. If two players have the identical lowest handicap index the captain may play either one, at anytime, in the 1st bracket. First bracket must play opposing team's 1st bracket, 2nd bracket must play opposing team's 2nd bracket, etc. Line-ups must be submitted in a sealed envelope to the Host Team Captain and duplicate copies of the line-ups exchanged simultaneously by opposing Team Captains. If a substitute takes the first bracket position in the line-up, the opposing team's captain should be notified of that change before line-ups are submitted - either the night before or early the morning of play.
2. A substitute whose handicap index has been reduced in order for the team to comply with the division aggregate limit does not have to play in the first bracket if this reduction should make her handicap index the lowest on her team.

C. Order Off the Tee: Provided agreement is reached between the captains, brackets may tee off in any order.

D. Suspension of Play:

1. Suspension of play shall be decided only by the Host Team Captain.
2. When play is suspended, it is recommended that players complete the hole, if possible. If not, mark the location of balls with tees, remove the balls and head in.
3. If play is resumed after a short interval, it shall begin from where it was discontinued.
4. If play is resumed on another day, it shall begin on the tee of the first incompleated hole.
5. On the designated rain date, the following procedure shall be followed:
 - a. Each team shall resubmit the same line-up used before suspension of play.
 - b. If a substitute is required, she shall be placed in the line-up where the original member of the team played, except when a substitute has the lowest handicap index on the team. That substitute shall play in the 1st bracket. The original low handicap index player shall then fill the vacant position.

E. Termination of Play:

1. The decision to terminate play for that day will be made jointly by the Host Team Captain and the Division Team Captain.
2. Should the members of BOTH teams, playing in the same bracket, decide at any point of the match that they wish to discontinue play, all players in that bracket shall be disqualified from the match and any delayed continuance of the match. No points shall be given to either side.

3. Should both members of one team in any bracket leave the course before the match has been decided, they shall be disqualified from the match and any delayed continuance of the match. They shall forfeit all points.

F. Disputes:

1. When disputes cannot be settled on the spot, play may be continued under USGA Rule 34-1.a. (Claims and Penalties).
2. At the end of play, disputes shall be referred to the Division Team Captain. If the dispute involves a USGA Rule of Golf, she will defer to the District Rules Committee for a decision. If the dispute involves other than a USGA Rule of Golf, and she cannot resolve it, the Division Team Captain shall refer the matter to the District Team Chairman.
3. All disputes must be settled no later than one week after match was played.

G. Pick-up: IT IS REQUESTED THAT A PLAYER PICK-UP WHEN SHE IS OUT OF THE HOLE.

H. Reporting Scores: Both teams are responsible for reporting scores to officials.

I. Winners: At the end of the season's play, the team in each Division winning the greatest number of points will be the winner of that Division. The team winning the second greatest number of points in each Division will be the runner-up of that Division. The GROSS winner of the 1st Division will be the WDGA TEAM CHAMPIONS and the NET Team winner will be the runner-up.

J. Ties:

1. In the case of a tie for first place in any Division there shall be an 18-hole playoff, at a neutral course, on a date set by the District Team Chairman and the Second Vice President. If still tied after 18 holes there will be a sudden-death playoff of all brackets.
2. A tie for second place in a Division will be decided on the last day of play by a sudden-death playoff of all brackets.

K. Recording of Scores: Individual score for Four-Ball Match Play must be recorded. (Revised USGA 1989 Handicap Manual, pages 6, 7, 48 & 49)

IV. ELIGIBILITY:

A. Player Eligibility:

1. Regular, replacement and substitute team members must be full members of the WDGA. WDGA members who are members of more than one club may play for one club only as a regular or substitute.

2. The handicap index of each regular, replacement and substitute team member is frozen as of November 1st of the preceding year. The only exception is a player who has just become eligible to join the WDGA on April 1st after posting winter scores from in-season courses. Her handicap index is frozen as of April 1st.
3. The established handicap index of an eligible individual joining the WDGA on April 1st from another area will be frozen as of November 1st of the preceding year.

B. Replacements:

1. A regular team member may be replaced with the approval of the District Team Chairman and the Second Vice President. Regardless of a change in aggregate handicap index, the team shall remain in the same Division
2. The player being replaced may not play on a team as a substitute in the year she is replaced.

C. Substitutes:

1. Unless special dispensation be granted by the District Team Chairman and the Second Vice President, a team member may be substituted for only twice, except in the last Division, when that Division has only five teams, the limit is once.
2. Use of regular team members in other Divisions as substitutes is prohibited.
3. If no eligible substitute is available under these rules, a club shall field a bracket with one player.
4. If a team member needs a substitute in the last day of play and the substitute, on that last day of play, declines to play, she shall find a substitute to take her place or become ineligible the following year to play as a regular member or as a substitute on any District team.

D. Eligibility of Replacements and Substitutes:

1. Division I - The handicap index of replacements/substitutes may not RAISE or LOWER the team aggregate more than two (2) whole index points above or below that of the highest or lowest team in the Division. Replacements/substitutes must play with no higher handicap index than is required to keep their team aggregate within the Division limit.
2. Division II-VII - The handicap index of replacements/substitutes may not RAISE the team aggregate more than two (2) whole index points above that of the highest team in the Division. There is no limit on how low a handicap index may be. Replacements/sugstitutes must play with no higher handicap index than is required to keep their team aggregate within the Division limit.
3. If two or more substitutes are placed on a team the same day, raising the team aggregate above the allowed limit, the Team Captain will decide as to the manner in which the index points will be reduced (taken from one only

- V. FEES: Each regular team member must pay a fee to be determined each year. The fees shall be collected by the Club Team Captain and paid on the first day of team play to the Division Team Captain. Substitutes pay no fees.
- VI. TROPHIES: A Team Trophy will be presented to the winner of the Division by the Division Team Captain.
- VII. PRIZES: Each regular member of the winning and runner-up teams of each Division shall receive an inscribed gold disc.
- VIII. CLUB TEAM CAPTAINS' RESPONSIBILITIES:
- A. To determine that each player on the opposing team is eligible and that their course handicap is correct. Also to determine that the lowest handicap index player is in the 1st bracket and that the total team aggregate is accurate, particularly if opponents have a substitute.
 - B. To determine that the WDGA dress code is followed.
 - C. When hosting matches:
 - 1. To arrange for adequate caddies or carts.
 - 2. To check with the Club Professional regarding conditions of the course with respect to use of carts. If carts are banned on the scheduled day of play, advise the Division Team Captain in time for postponement or arrangements for play.
 - 3. To receive line-ups in sealed envelopes and determine that the lowest handicap index players are in the 1st brackets. To check the total team aggregates carefully, particularly when substitutes are listed, to assure that reduction of handicap indexes are made when necessary. Also, to be sure that the handicap index of each player has been converted to the course handicap accurately.
 - 4. If "Winter Rules" are being used, be sure to specify what is covered by "Winter Rules" on that particular course (see page 91, USGA Rules of Golf).
 - 5. To have members of the Host Club available thirty minutes prior to commencement of play to assist with duties.
 - 6. To provide spotters, as necessary, to speed up play.
 - 7. To provide monitors on the course to keep the field moving and to caution players regarding undue delay.
 - 8. To assess penalty for undue delay, is warranted.

McCullough Tops Hess in WDGA

Defending champion Shawn McCullough beat Barbara Hess, 8-7, in first-flight play in the first round of the Women's District Golf Association championships yesterday at Montgomery Country Club.

Gilda Hines of Bretton Woods, this year's qualifying medalist with a 78 on Monday, won her sixth-flight match, 2-up, over Valda Sparks.

In the second- and third-flight matches, Sheila Dagucon defeated Patsy Peck, 2-1, and Cindy Carlin beat Su Kim, 6-5.

Mika Tetley defeated Doddie Bennett, 3-2, in fourth-flight play, and Mary Lucas outshot Rita Liptz, 3-2, in the fifth flight. In the final two flights, Shirley Kushner beat Ann Cook in 21 holes while Sharon Briggs defeated Peg Twisdale, 6-5.

Twisdale came back, however, in the senior division championship, winning the senior medal in a play-off against Kim.

There will be two rounds today to make up for Tuesday's rainout. The final round is scheduled for Friday.

Dagucon, Hides Play 2, Reach Championship

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Sheila Dagucan advanced to the final of the Women's District Golf Association championship yesterday by beating Shawn McCullough, the two-time defending champion, and Cindy Carlin at Montgomery Country Club.

Dagucon, who lost in the final two years ago to McCullough, ousted the Mount Vernon golfer with a 2 and 1 victory in the morning quarterfinals. Dagucan then defeated Carlin, 4 and 3, in the semifinals to earn a return trip to the championship round, where she will face medalist Gillian Hides of Bretton Woods today at 9:30 a.m.

Hides, who shot 78 to win Monday's qualifying medal, eliminated Mary Lucas of Army Navy, 6 and 4, and Shirley Kushner of Montgomery Village, 3 and 2.

A rainout of Tuesday's scheduled first round of match play necessitated the two rounds yesterday. "I'm tired," said Dagucan, 39, of Gaithersburg, who played a total of 32 holes yesterday on her home course.

She was 3 over par for the quarterfinal match and took a two-stroke lead when she won Nos. 6 and 8 on the front nine. Dagucan ended the match with style, lipping out a bid for eagle on the 17th hole before matching McCullough's birdie for the win.

In the later match, the long-hitting Dagucan made two birdies, nine pars and four bogeys against Carlin of Montgomery Village. Of playing her home course, Dagucan said, "It's definitely an advantage. You know where to hit it."

Hides, an elementary school teacher in Arlington, said she did not play as well yesterday as she did in qualifying Monday. She led by three strokes after the 14th hole when Kushner's tee shot landed in greenside sand. Kushner, who had eliminated 1990 finalist Sharon Briggs in her morning quarterfinal, won the next hole, but the match ended when she bogeyed the par-4 16th hole.

Dagucon Takes Title At Home Over Hides

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

Sheila Dagucan, playing her home Montgomery Country Club course, took a 2-up lead at the decisive 13th hole and went on to a 4 and 2 victory yesterday over Gillian Hides of Bretton Woods for the Women's District Golf Association championship.

The odds favored three-handicap-per Dagucan, playing 12-handicap-per Hides, who was in unfamiliar territory. But Hides, 47, a left-handed Australian who won Monday's qualifying medal, made three birdies and hung tough, within one hole as they played the par-5 13th.

There, both were in perfect position after two shots, preparing to hit short pitch shots to the green.

But Hides hit hers "fat" and the ball fell just short of a bunker in front of the green. Hides dumped her next shot into the sand and ended up conceding Dagucan a five-foot birdie putt as Dagucan took a 2-up lead.

Two holes later, Hides flubbed another short shot and lost the par-5 15th to fall three holes down with three to play. The match ended on the next hole, which Dagucan won with a par.

"I lost my dad last September," said Dagucan, 39, a investigator in market surveillance who lives in Gaithersburg. "He was the guy who taught me how to play golf. This one was for my dad."

years ago, was taking nothing for granted yesterday, even though most in the gallery were rooting for her. "I was prepared for a tough match," she said. "She beat some good players plus she was medalist. I knew I had to pay attention."

What got her attention were three birdies by Hides, who made long birdie putts to win the third and fifth holes. Dagucan took a 1-up lead only after Hides three-putted the eighth. After losing the 10th hole, Hides came right back with a beautiful tee shot and a successful three-foot birdie putt at the par-3 11th.

But then came the beginning of the end for Hides at the dogleg 13th. Hides said her problems stemmed from a bad lie for her third shot. "I really don't want to make excuses. My ball was sitting in a divot," said Hides, of Arlington, who teaches elementary school at the Potomac School in McLean.

She was undecided whether to hit a wedge or a 9-iron; she selected the wedge and hit it short. "I made the trouble for myself. I played those two par-5s particularly badly," said Hides, who did not appear disappointed with her weeklong showing. "I did what I wanted to do this week. I had a lovely time. The first 12 holes were good today."

Tony Marlowe and Pro-Lady Tournaments Draw Capacity Fields

FRAN ACKERMAN

When rain forced the Women's District Golf Association's 1991 Tony Marlowe Two-Lady Better-Ball to be postponed for a week—from Friday, August 9 to Friday, August 16—many of the would-be participants were faced with a difficult decision. August 16 was also the date of the Middle Atlantic PGA's annual Pro-Lady Tournament to benefit the American Cancer Society. Quite a few golfers had signed up to play in both events, and the potential for pull-outs from each was high. What would happen when two of the Metro Area's biggest women's golf tournaments ended up on the same day?

What happened was that both events were raging successes. The annual tournaments are so popular that, even with the flurry of last minute changes, there was no shortage of eager golfers waiting in the wings. Both fields were filled to capacity.

While most participants opted for one tournament or the other, the intrepid Sharon Briggs and Shirley Kushner of Montgomery Village came up with their own solution. Briggs and Kushner arranged for a 7:30 a.m. tee time at the Tony Marlowe, played 18 holes, and then raced across Montgomery County to Indian Spring. There they met up with fellow Montgomery Villagers Cindy Carlin and golf professional Gray Hamilton, their partners in the Pro-Lady. With precious few minutes to spare, the foursome teed off at 1:20 p.m.

In this case, extraordinary effort paid off extraordinarily. Briggs and Kushner were awarded fourth gross for their 77 at the Tony Marlowe Tournament, and, although their team finished out of the winners' circle, Briggs individually won low amateur gross with 80 at Indian Spring, but obviously I played better than anybody else." Briggs started out her second eighteen holes of the day bogey-bogey-DOUBLE BOGEY. Fortunately, the birdies soon kicked in, and Briggs, a two-time Montgomery Village champion and four-time runner-up in the District championship, was on her way to yet another local victory.

Other individual winners in gross at the Pro-Lady were Sherry Zaleski of Prince William, runner-up to Briggs with 81; Nancy Gallagher of University of Maryland, third with 82 by a match-of-cards over Malsun Lee of Indian Spring, fourth place; Susie Schuh of Hunt Valley, fifth with 83; Lyn Moen of Hidden Creek, sixth with 84; and Briggs-and-Kushner teammate Cindy Carlin of Montgomery Village, seventh gross with 85.

In the team-gross division, pro Bob Boyd of Woodmont led Woodmont golfers Faye Bildman, Frances Abramson, and Dean Stein to top honors with 64. Sharing second gross with 67 each were the teams of pro Mark Spolarich and Tina Chisena of Crofton and Ann Roby and Gloria Luttrell of Prince George's; pro Marty O'Rear of Northern Virginia Golf and Brenda Finci, Flo Engel, and Rose Goldman of Indian Spring; and pro Glenn Miller of Fort Washington, Dottie Bennett of International, and Lyn Moen and Elaine Padovani of Hidden Creek.

Net honors went to teams composed of pro Bob Bilbo, wife Arlene Bilbo, Millie Vermillion of Argyle, and Annette Symonds of Indian Spring; pro Glenn Brown, Corene Turner, Parmie Battin of Westwood and Mitzie Waghelstein of Indian Spring; and pro Jimmy Hyams of Woodholme, Marge Rumrill of Argyle, JoAnn Hayden of Piney Branch, and Evelyn Brandorff of Indian Spring. All three teams netted 60. Following at 61 were the teams of pro Charlie Briggs of Cave's Valley, Carol Schmidt and Kristin Dollenberg of Baltimore Country Club, and Evelyn Pressman of Indian Spring; and home-course heroes Phil Bureau, Judy Fried, Pat Eisen, and Soozie Brendler, all of Indian Spring.

Bob Boyd won the Pro Sweeps with 64. He was followed by Marty O'Rear and Glenn Miller, 68 each; Jack Skilling of Columbia and Rob Ferguson of Washington Golf, 69 each; and Mark Spolarich, Charlie Briggs, and University of Maryland's Don Slebodnik, 70 each.

Evelyn Brandorff of the host course took first net with 67. Other prizes in net went to junior Kristin Dollenberg of Baltimore Country Club, 69 net; Carol Schmidt of Baltimore Country Club and Betty Kirchner of Washington Golf and Country Club, 70 net each; Arlene Bilbo of Argyle, 72 net; Soozie Brendler of Indian Spring, 73 net; Naomi Lutsch of Glenn Dale, with 74 net.

Meanwhile, back at Woodmont, local twosomes were hotly contesting the Tony Marlowe title. JaJa Chung and Penny Holladay of Avenel were awarded first net by a match-of-cards over Patty Sullivan and Shirley Kirby of Springfield after both teams finished with 63. Third net went to Peg Johns and Genny Mulligan of Brooke Manor, 64.

Other winners in net included Ruth Brubaker and Jane Kim of River Bend, Peg Bardenman and Dee McCarron of Argyle, and Lu Clare Lee and Eleanor Kelly of Manor, 66 each; Ellen McGowan and Julie Bloom of Springfield, Rose Marie Barczy and Alice Michela of Manor, Betsy Bednarczyk and Margaret Harkleroad of Lakewood, with 67 each.

In addition to Briggs and Kushner, Tony Marlowe winners in gross included Karen Jones and Carole Harris of Argyle, first gross with 72; Mimi Hoffman of Belle Haven and Shawn McCullough of Woodlawn, second gross with 76; Mary Lucas and Sue Savage of Army Navy, third gross with 77 by a match-of-cards over Briggs and Kushner.

Baltimore team beats D.C. outfit

A Baltimore team, dominated by single-digit players, handed a Washington team its worst defeat in the last 30 years of this long-running women's event, scoring a 15½-2½ victory at Maryland Golf and CC in the Baltimore-Washington Women's team match.

Four of the six matches were 3-0 wins, as Baltimore won the inaugural Kathleen Nes Memorial Trophy, placed in competition this year in memory of the former team captain who was killed in an automobile accident a year ago.

The Midge Thursby-Sally Casey team built a commanding lead on the front nine, then could not hold off Linda Collins and Jennifer Lewis on the back nine in getting a 2-1 decision, and Jane DuBois-Cynthia Peters split with Cindy Carlin-Carmen Oelsner, 1½-1½, in the only non-sweeps.

Washington vs. Baltimore WDGA

..... Wait 'till '92, Baltimore !!!

On Oct. 11, the Women's District Golf Association lost 15 $\frac{5}{8}$ -2 $\frac{1}{2}$ under a Nassau format to Baltimore's Women's Golf Association at the annual Inter-City Tournament. The event was held this year at Maryland Golf and Country Club in Bel Air. The WDGA team, also captained by Oelsner, was composed of Trans-Potomac veterans Kushner and Miller as well as Sharon Briggs, Cami Berher, Cindy Carlin and Lynda Bindseil of Montgomery Village, Linda Collins of Columbia, Jennifer Lewis and Carole Harris of Woodmont and Lorraine Houlahan and Barbara Garrett of Mount Vernon.

Partners Oelsner and Carlin claimed 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ points by halving their match, while Collins and Lewis earned the District's only other point.

"Baltimore has a very good, very tough team," Oelsner said.

"They're low-handicap players and they play to their handicaps.

"But we lost gracefully," she said.

Golfer Hanley points her game toward pro tour

By MIKE BUCKLEY
Special to The Journal

Shannon Hanley spent her first four months out of college cramped into the starter's booth at PGA National Golf Club in Palm Beach, Fla., earning $4 an hour and making the most of the precious few opportunities club management afforded employees to play the course.

She came home to Germantown in May, only to take off again on a three-month journey around a women's minor-league golf circuit, ambling to venues like Decatur, Ill., York, Pa., and Sunbury, Ohio, and staying in homes of nearby residents to cut costs.

Hanley, who turned 24 on Saturday, hopes to trade these experiences and countless hours of practice into a spot on the Ladies Professional Golf Association Tour. She'll find out next week if it was worth it, when she turns pro and tries to qualify for the Tour next Tuesday through Thursday at Plantation Country Club in Venice, Fla.

Working in Florida "was a tremendous experience," said Hanley, who plays out of Congressional Country Club. "But some mornings . . . I had to be there by 5:30 and by the time it came to practice, I was awful tired. That was the problem. I feel if you have to pursue the playing aspect of golf, there's only one way you can do that and that's put in more hours of practice."

That practice has paid off with a pretty solid year of competition. After graduating from James Madison University last December and spending lots of time on the driving range in Florida, Hanley qualified for four events on the Futures Tour, the training ground for future LPGA stars and the recovery room for those trying to get back on the top circuit. Her best finish was 47th place, for which the $217 prize would have barely covered the entry fee. The true prize, though, was a first look at the life of a touring pro.

"I made the cuts for all the Futures events I tried for, and I played very well the majority of the time," said Hanley, who will practice this week in Boca Raton, Fla. "I'd have one or two bad holes that would cost me."

She won the Maryland Women's Amateur championship last month, beating Maryland State senior champ Joan Lins a year after losing to Jane Fitzgerald of Beaver Creek in the finals. But her momentum duck-hooked a few days later, when she failed to qualify for the U.S. Women's Amateur by shooting 83 at Columbia Country Club.

"I think part of the problem for me is that golf comes in such waves," Hanley said. "Some days you play well and some days you don't play well."

"I'm getting much better," she said. "When you get to this level, all you're doing is working on consistency, or what shots will give you the best consistency. It's course management now, more than anything else. My swing is in fine shape, it's just a matter of eliminating the errors. I'm learning to do that now. It's always a learning process."

Bill Strausbaugh, the head pro at Columbia Country Club and Hanley's coach for the past 2½ years, said consistency should come.

"What she's looking for is maturity and experience, and that comes with time," Strausbaugh said. "She'll have to get used to the pressure and being under the gun . . . those are things that all amateurs, when turning pro, have to overcome. I think she's got a very good chance."

Pro golf was once the furthest thing from the mind of Hanley, who as a 13-year-old used to tag along with her mother once a week to Congressional. She said she used to scoop balls from the water and use them to practice her chipping and putting, and soon she was smacking them off the tee in distance contests with other juniors.

"It was just a match to see who could hit the ball farthest," Hanley said. "It was never anything serious. Then the Women's Golf Association started and they had a little juniors program, where you'd pay two bucks and you'd get to play some of the courses in the area. There were only about three of us so it was no big deal to the clubs."

From there it was on to Connelly School of the Holy Child in Potomac, and golf became the summertime sport lumped in with field hockey, basketball and softball during the school year. When it came time for college, though, golf bypassed field hockey as the sport of choice.

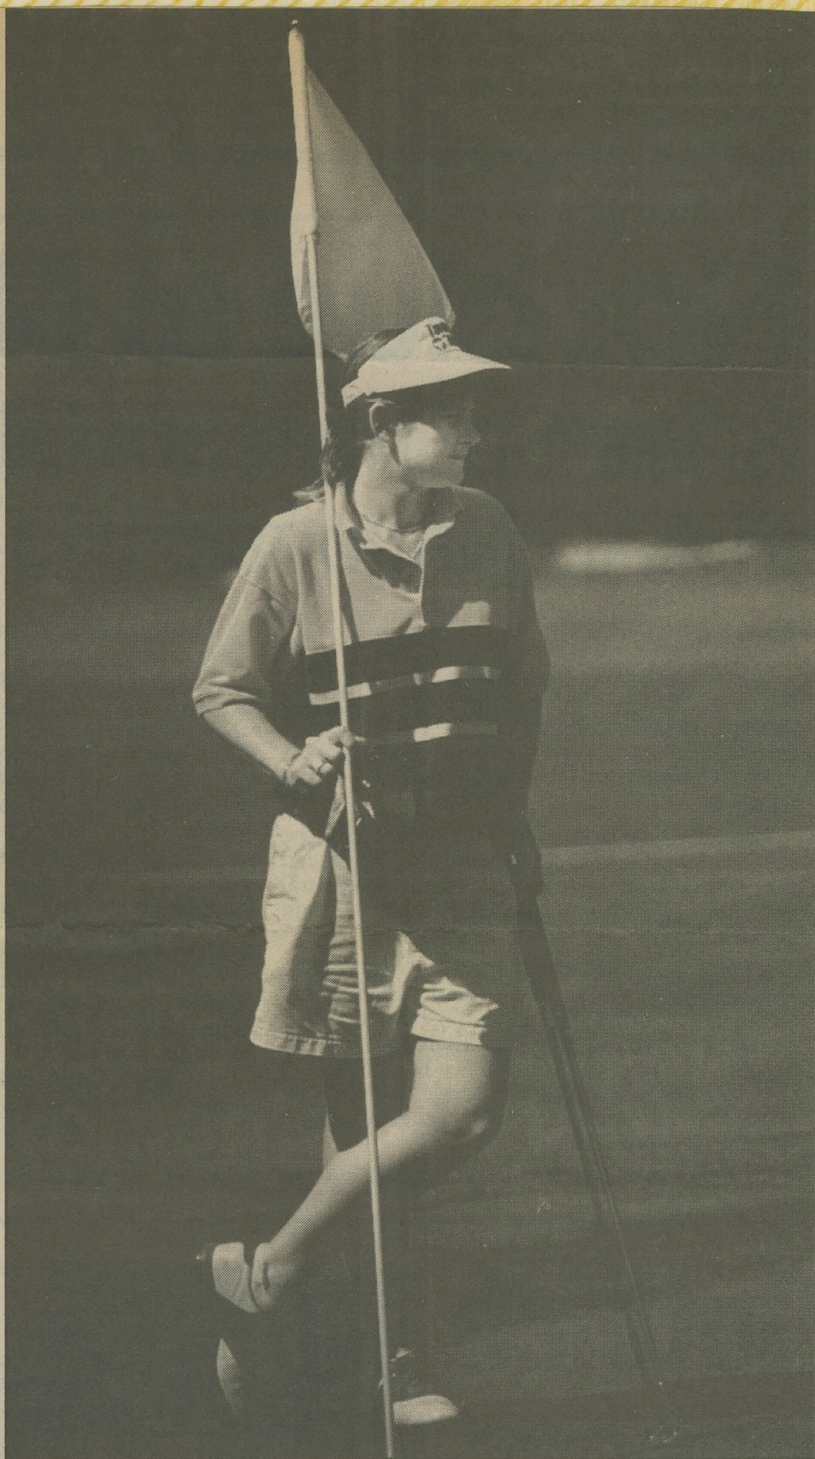

"I never really played golf with the exception of summers, until I went away to college," said Hanley, who started at Purdue but transferred to James Madison after two years. "I think I've still got a lot of field hockey in my golf swing. I think that's what increased my strength and I tend to hit a long way. Golf was still something I picked up along the way."

"She just has a lot of inborn athletic ability," Strausbaugh said. "I mean, she could play point guard on a basketball team, too. Her talent is inborn, and her technique is improving."

Two strong seasons at James Madison, tremendous improvement in her game and the lagging job market in December led her to explore the world of pro golf. For the past couple years Hanley helped out at youth golf programs around the county and entertained thoughts of becoming a teaching pro. But that thought died with the long hours and additional business training needed for a teaching apprenticeship.

Besides, what she really wanted to do was play.

"I think when I went to college I felt like I had developed quite a bit of talent," Hanley said. "I had been working with my coach and I sat down and discussed the possibilities degree in management, and it really became an issue of what I wanted to do. I mean, I've graduated from college, I've got my life ahead of me and if I was going to try to do something with golf, which is what I'd like to do, now is the time. I'll always have a business degree to fall back on, but golf is what I like."

She'll try to make it her career next week, at the first of three LPGA Tour qualifying events. If she misses at Plantation she can try again next month in Palm Springs. The top 70 from each event move on to four more days of qualifying in October in

The survivors make the tour. Some who miss may go back to the Futures circuit to get ready for another try.

Hanley plans to make it on the first try.

"You'll see some changes in women's golf," Hanley said. "It's gotten much more competitive. I think the competition will only get better, but I think I still have the talent to take me to great heights. Knowing that somebody out there might be better than you makes you practice that much harder. And the mere fact that you can see the change occurring just

Playing 36 holes, Sharon Briggs nets

Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village had a long but rewarding day Aug. 16.

At 7:30 a.m., she and partner Shirley Kushner teed off at the Women's District Golf Association's Two-Lady Better Ball tournament at Woodmont. By 1:20 p.m. she and Kushner were across the county at Indian Spring, joining two other Montgomery Village golfers — WDGA teammate Cindy Carlin and pro Gray Hamilton — to compete in the Middle Atlantic PGA's annual Pro-Lady Tournament to benefit the American Cancer Society.

Briggs' efforts paid off. She and Kushner claimed fourth gross at Woodmont with 77, and Briggs won gross with 80 at Indian Spring.

Briggs was low-key about her accomplishments.

"I'm getting too old to play 36 holes in one day," she said. "I didn't think I played that well at Indian Spring, but obviously I did."

Ironically, a team from Woodmont, composed of pro Bob Boyd, Frances Abramson, Dean Stein and women's golf chairman Faye Bildman took top honors in the team-gross division at Indian Spring. The four-some combined for 64.

Three teams finished with 60 in the net division. They included pro Bob Bilbo of Argyle, wife Arlene Bilbo, Millie Vermillion of Argyle and Annette Symonds of Indian Spring; pro Glenn Brown, Corene Turner and Parmie Battin of Westwood teamed with Mitzi Waghelstein of Indian Spring; and pro Jimmy Hyams of Woodholme, Marge Rumrill of Argyle, JoAnn Hayden of Piney Branch and and Evelyn Brandorff of Indian Spring.

Brandorff also won individual low net with 67, and Boyd led the Pro Sweeps with 64.

Meanwhile, over at Woodmont, JaJa Chung and Penny Holladay of Avenel were awarded first net at the Tony Marlowe tournament by a match-of-cards over Patty Sullivan and Shirley Kirby of Springfield after both teams shot 63. Low gross went to Argyle's Karen Jones and Carole Harris, who fired 72.

Among the other county teams that came in low were Peg Johns and Genny Mulligan of Brooke Manor, third net with 64; Peg Bardleman and Dee McCarren of Argyle, fifth net with 66 by a match-of-cards over

Hanley Tops Lins, 4 and 3, To Win Title

By Ben Gieser
Special to The Washington Post

CATONSVILLE, Md., July 19—Shannon Hanley of Germantown, runner-up last year, played par golf and defeated Joan Lins of Ellicott City, 4 and 3, to win the Maryland Women's Amateur championship today at Rolling Road Golf Club.

Hanley, 23, current women's club champion at Congressional Country Club, was 9 under par in winning quarterfinal and semifinal matches Thursday. She was not as sharp today but finally pulled away from Lins, the Maryland State Seniors champion, on the back nine.

Hanley, who lost to Kensington's Jane Fitzgerald in last year's final, sank an eight-foot downhill birdie putt at the ninth hole to go 1-up. She birdied the 11th to go 2-up and was never threatened thereafter. The match ended on the par-3 15th hole, where Hanley hit an excellent tee shot five feet from the hole, missed the birdie putt but still matched Lins's par to close her out.

Lins, 51, also Baltimore women's Virginia Women: Defending champion Ruth Ann Verell of Alexandria defeated Suffolk's Marshall Belcher in 21 holes in the opening round of the Virginia Women's Senior at Homestead in Hot Springs. Kay Schiefelbein of Alexandria, a two-time winner, routed Loraine Houlahan of Mount Vernon, 8 and 6.

In the 63rd Virginia Women's Amateur, three-time champion Jane Mack of Richmond beat Kit Davis of Virginia Beach, 9 and 7, and Sherry Zaleski of Nokesville beat Kathryn Fuliehan of Richmond, 5 and 4.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 31—Jane Mack and Anne Patrick, a pair of former titleholders from Richmond, presented pressure finishes today at the Cascades Course to join Sherry Zaleski of Nokesville and Vikki Valentine of Virginia Beach in Thursday's semifinals of the 63rd Virginia Women's Amateur.

In the Virginia Women's Senior at the Homestead Course, defending champion and twice-winner Ruth Ann Verell of Alexandria was an upset victim, 2 and 1, of Mary Helen Rawls of Suffolk in the second round. Kay Schiefelbein of Alexandria, a 1991 finalist, survived 1989 champion Joan Darden of Glen Allen, 2 and 1, for a semifinal date with Margaret Shotton of Virginia Beach.

At Cascades, Mack made par 3 on the 18th to trip Maggie Balch of Richmond, 1 up. Patrick rallied past Peggy Woodard of Virginia Beach, 3 and 1. Zaleski, who will play Mack, stopped Fran Hensley of Ridgeway, 2 and 1. Valentine, a University of South Carolina senior, topped Chris Epperly of Virginia Beach, 2 and 1.

senior champion, was a decided underdog against the longer-hitting Hanley. "No question," said Lins. "We're dealing with a young gal who's going to turn pro next month and try for the LPGA Tour. I was just glad I wasn't blown out. She's a delightful young lady, just as nice as she is good. I'm not upset. Sure, I could have made a few more putts, but on the whole, I'm not unhappy."

Hanley said she prepared for this tricky course, which includes hills, several short par 4s and a par 6—by playing with some members in a practice round Sunday. "I got used to the golf course," said Hanley, who played four years at James Madison University. "It's real dry and you don't know which way the ball is going to bounce."

Playing in four Futures Tour (minor league of the LPGA) events this summer also helped, she said. Hanley, a graduate of Holy Child High School, said she will turn professional in mid-August and will try to qualify for the LPGA Tour later that month.

She said she was unable to hit any practice balls before playing today's final and had on-the-job training on the opening nine. "I didn't really loosen up until I made the turn," she said. After that, Hanley hit nothing but good shots.

Sheila Dagucon of Montgomery Country Club, the Women's District Golf Association champion, beat one-time Maryland Amateur champion Jane Mason of Nassawango in 19 holes to win the first flight.

Women's Golf Competition Gets Into Full Swing

BY FRAN ACKERMAN

Sarah Kayson of Washington, D.C., appeared at Birdwood Golf Course in Charlottesville, Virginia, June 19-23, thanks to her performance at the Sectional Qualifying Round of The U.S. Women's Amateur Public Links Championship on May 30. Kayson and five other local hopefuls battled 98-degree heat and 18-holes at Springfield Country Club in pursuit of two places at the final.

Kayson, a nine-handicapper who frequents East Potomac Park Golf Course, fired 83 in her first Public Links effort, three strokes behind medalist Beth Walters, a four-handicapper from Pinehurst, North Carolina.

Bethesda native and Public Links veteran Karen Lynn Smith, who plays at the University of Maryland, landed the first alternate position on the second hole of a playoff at 92 over Carolyn Hudson of Bowie, second alternate. Both Smith and Hudson went to the Women's Public Links Championship last year.

Pearl Smith of Alexandria took the third alternate position with 94, and Cheryl Gustitus of Burtonsville, a 27-handicapper who says she plays "all over," claimed the fourth alternate slot with 100.

Ann Bergquist of Kenwood, a member of the Sectional Qualifying Committee, expressed admiration for the competitors, who were required to walk the course on one of the hottest days so far this year. "Those girls all hit some really pretty balls," Bergquist said.

The Women's District of Columbia Golf Association finished up its series of team matches on rain-dates. Washington Golf defeated River Bend in Division III by a mere half-point, 174-173 1/2. In Division V, Bethesda beat Lakewood on the last day of competition to claim a 177-174 1/2 overall victory. River Bend finished third in that division with 174.

Team matches over, the District is now heavily into its schedule of class (i.e., handicap bracket) tournaments. The Class B Stohlman Volkswagen Cup was held on May 15 at Bethesda, and Pat Meyer of International fired 85(15)70 for the win. Low gross went to Su Kim of Bretton Woods, who shot 86. Dottie Dobbins of River Bend took second gross with 89.

Runners-up in net included Susan Antle of Montgomery Village, 87(15)72; Maxine Johnson of Army-Navy, 89(17)72; Mary Kerich of Bethesda, 90(17)73; Estelle Slivka of Brooke Manor, 91(17)74; Sue Wheeler of Army-Navy, 89(15)74; and Natalie Carney of Army Navy, 91(17)74; Susan Peterson of Bethesda, 91(17)74; Hermie Touse of Brooke Manor, 92(18)74; Diane Lindberg of Country Club of Fairfax, 92(18)74; Nancy Hunter of Montgomery, 91(17)74; Jean Hansen of Manor, 91(17)74; and Katharine Gunson of Bretton Woods, 91(17)74.

Patty Desimone of Montgomery successfully defended her Class D Lenore Goldsmith Memorial Cup title by shooting 85(22)63 at Woodmont on beautiful, sunny May 17. It was a triple triumph for Desimone, who not only won the event but also shot her career round AND broke 90 for the first time. Since Desimone took the cup, first gross was awarded to Jane Kim of River Bend, 91. Second gross went to Lakewood's Eve Dempsher with 92.

Net winners included Jenny Mulligan of Brooke Manor, 93(21)72; Peggy Anson of Congressional, 95(23)72; Billie Jo Gilliam of International, 94(21)73; Dorothy Mattison of Norbeck, 96(23)73; Lucy Keker of Kenwood, 95(21)74; Debby Clark of Fairfax, 97(23)74; Patricia Law of Kenwood, 97(23)74; Mary Jane McKee of Bretton Woods, 98(23)75; Betsy Bednarczyk of Lakewood, 99(23)76; Florence McClain of Lakewood, 98(22)76; Lorraine Johnson of Manor, 97(21)76; and Gus Edmondson of Fairfax, 97(21)76. Cynthia Wood of Norbeck, 96(20), and Norma Spicher of Argyle, 99(23), also netted 76 but were carded out of the winners' circle.

The York Flower Bowl, a Class C event, was held at International on May 21. Paula Petrovic, playing on the lightening-fast greens of her home course, took overall honors with 91(21)70 net. Soozie Brendler of Indian Spring won gross with 91, one stroke ahead of Argyle's Millie Vermillion, second gross with 92.

Prizes in net were awarded to Cathy LaCotti of Montgomery, 93(22)71; Grace James of Bethesda, 92(20)72; Jean Carry of Kenwood, 94(21)73; Lori Ledbetter of Lake-

Finally, 35 of the lowest of the District's low handicappers converged at Army Navy's Arlington course on June 4 to contest the Class A WRC Cup. Lynda Bindseil of Montgomery Village won with 81(12)69 against heavy competition that included the three most recent Keefer Cup champions.

Shelley Savage of the host course took gross honors with 79. She was followed by Lorraine Houlahan of Mount Vernon, second gross with 83; Sharon Briggs of Montgomery Village, third gross with 84; and defending champion Ruth Ann Verrell of Belle Haven, fourth gross with 85.

Net awards went to Mary Lucas of Army Navy, 83(13)70; 1991 Keefer Cup winner Paula Fairley of River Bend, 86(14)72; 1989 Keefer Cup winner Peggy Widicus of Army Navy, 85(12)73; 1990 Keefer Cup winner Sheila Kinsella of Bretton Woods, 86(13)73; Ellen McGowan of Springfield, 86(13)73; Pat Kaufman of Port America, 86(13)73; and Kay Tyler of Kenwood, 86(11)75. (Marilyn McCormick of Springfield also netted 75 but lost to Tyler by a match of cards.)

Maryland-Virginia Nine-hole Team Match Association Invitational of the season was held at Manor on May 23. The theme was "Tee-Cup Tee-Par-Tee", and the clubhouse was decorated with all forms of tea party paraphernalia and favors. Sixty-four golfers from 18 clubs participated in the gala event.

First place (and four beautiful putters) went to the foursome of Vivian Strindmo of Lakewood, Mary Schneider of Montgomery, Peggy Kluge of Montgomery Village, and Marlene Little of Congressional. The winning team shot 35 best-ball. Mary Riedlin of Manor, Doris Russell of Army-Navy, Mayme Malinowski of Montgomery Village, and Betty Vecchione of Mount Vernon won second place at 37 by a match-of-cards over Wanda Sherfy of Congressional, Betty Buck of Army-Navy, Jeanne Fangmeyer of Manor, and Florence Lawrence of Argyle. Third place went to Camille Sabourin of the Country Club of Fairfax, Ellie Nininger of Manor, Joyce Chamberlain of Westwood, and Lois Coen of Hidden Creek. Mary Markuski of Prince George's, Virginia Smith of Montgomery, Brigit Dillard of Westwood, and Lynn Castle of Lakewood took fourth.

Results of the continuing Montgomery-Prince George's Counties Women's Golf Association team matches will be reported in the next edition of Metro Golf.
